Morris and Ward are making their first appearance on the city legislative body. O'Brien, who was later chosen as chairman, is beginning his second term. All three were elected in the November general election.

Ward, Morris assume seats at Council's reorganization

Two new members took the oath of office before assuming seats on the Washington C.H. City Council Friday morning, and Council then reorganized, electing new officers and appointing committee members.

Other matters presented at the brief first-of-the-year meeting included appointments to the Carnegie Public Library board of trustees and discussions of "emergency" legislation and suspension of the three-readings rule.

John F. Morris, 793 McLean St., and James F. Ward, 549 Damon Drive, took the oath of office administered by city solicitor Gary D. Smith. Both were elected for their first term on the city's legislative body in November. Council member Joseph O. O'Brien, 120 Gardner Court, who was re-elected to serve another term, reaffirmed the oath he took four years ago.

Retiring from City Council were Donald E. Wood and John E. Rhoads. Wood, who is employed as a teacher at Washington Senior High School, had served on the Council for the past eight years. Wood also does psychological testing at Orient State Institute and increased responsibilities there were a primary factor in his decision to seek another term, Wood said.

Several members commended Wood on his contributions to City Council and the community during his two terms. The retiring Council member had noted at the final 1975 Council meeting that he had thoroughly enjoyed his association with other members and the challenges met by Council during the past eight years. A member of the Washington C.H. Planning Commission, Wood said he will retain that responsibility and will remain active in city affairs.

Rhoads, Council's most outspoken member during his four-year tenure, was not present at the reorganizational meeting.

Farm labor election plan works well in California

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — California's fledgling farm labor election process, despite demands for revisions, begins the new year with a record of more elections in four months than the National Labor Relations Board held in its first full year.

A total of 376 elections were conducted on individual ranches during the four months, according to Associated Press statistics.

Officials of the Agricultural Labor Relations Board, the agency that administers the historic act, like to point out that the NLRB conducted only 203 elections during its first year in the 1930s.

Agriculture was left out of the National Labor Relations Act, and the California law thus resulted in the first massive farm labor elections ever held in the nation.

The California board is caught in the middle. Growers and the Teamsters union claim the board and staff favor the United Farm Workers, and UFW officials claim some decisions favored growers or the Teamsters.

Growers have launched a drive for amendments this year to the act adopted by the California legislature last spring after a decade of farm union organization strife.

Supporters of the law note that, despite controversy over its implementation, violence was kept at a minimum during the election process which began in early September.

The Cesar Chavez-led UFW and the Teamsters stayed pretty even during the first few weeks of balloting at key table grape and lettuce ranches, focal points of their rivalry for years.

But the UFW steadily pulled ahead as its organizers persistently forced elections at ranches throughout the state. The Teamsters concentrated on retaining bargaining rights at the numerous ranches where it already had contracts.

By year's end, the UFW had won more than half the elections held, according to the AP tally. The UFW had 185 victories covering 18,000 workers compared with the Teamsters' 110 victories covering 11,000 workers.

The "no union representation" option on the ballot won a majority vote at 25 ranches involving 2,000 workers. Eight elections were won by miscellaneous unions, and 48 remain undecided due to challenged ballots.

The UFW also held a solid lead in the total votes it received, again getting about half of the more than 40,000 cast. The AP's figures show the UFW received 54 per cent of all votes counted, with the Teamsters trailing at 29 per cent. Seventeen per cent of the ballots were for no union.

City Council elects O'Brien as chairman

Before leaving the chair, Cook addressed City Council briefly.

He summarized the state of continuing crises during 1975 with a simple "We got through another year." He noted that one of City Council's least popular actions, the imposition of a city income tax, had brought heavy criticism, but concluded by saying that it is obvious that "we would never have made it without it."

The city carried a balance of less than $50,000 into 1976 after having obtained nearly $200,000 revenue from the tax.

Members of Council, including Eddie Fisher Mrs. McCullough and O'Brien, thanked Cook for his efforts during the year. They said they felt he did an outstanding job, considering the wealth of problems which arose, not the least of which was the "resignation" of former city manager Dan Wolford.

Cook served as acting city manager for several weeks while a successor to Wolford was being sought. "How you managed to serve as city manager and operate your business, I don't know, said Fisher. It was a bad year for Council, and it required a lot of time on Cook's part," Fisher added.

Cook noted that the city's financial picture is approximately the same this year as it was at the beginning of 1975. He added, however, that he felt the difficulties could be resolved, and that the bigger the problems, the greater the satisfaction of overcoming them. There is a "bunch of fighters here," he concluded.

In his first official action, O'Brien named councilmen to the city's four standing committees.

Cook and Morris were named to the personnel committee, Fisher and Mrs. McCullough to the finance committee, Ward and Morris to the safety committee, and Wilson and Mrs. McCullough to the street and sewer committee.

$634 million OK'd for TV net

Broadcast bill signed by Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has signed a bill authorizing $634 million over five years for the Public Broadcasting Corp. and vetoed a bill designed to insure that economic considerations are taken into account in deliberations of the National Security Council.

Actions on 15 pending bills, taken on New Year's Eve, were announced Thursday at the White House.

The vetoed bill would have given the secretary of the Treasury membership on the National Security Council. Ford said that was unnecessary and undesirable because there were adequate arrangements for getting advice from the Treasury secretary.

It was Ford's 43rd veto.

Public Broadcasting had sought "financial security" since the corporation was established in 1968, claiming that funding plans of two years or less hampered planning and detracted from quality programming.

Proponents of the five-year authorization also have said it would tend to blunt potential government interference in such areas as public affairs programs by making annual funding pleas to Congress unnecessary.

Among the bills signed by Ford was a measure to increase the monthly premium for Medicare coverage from $6.70 to $7.20, effective July 1. The change will affect more than 20 million Medicare recipients enrolled in the voluntary coverage that pays doctors' bills.

Also signed was the $6.4-billion authorization for the new Energy Research and Development Administration and a measure to give emergency relief to small business firms caught in the economic squeeze of rising costs and fixed-price federal contract commitments.

Ford also issued a proclamation ending U.S. restrictions on imports of Canadian meat. The limitations had been in effect since Nov. 16, 1974, in retaliation for import limits set by Canada.

Ford said they were removed because "Canada has now lifted those unjustifiable restrictions on meat imports from the United States."

The President spent New Year's Day working on his fiscal 1977 budget and watching his alma mater, Michigan, on television playing in the Orange Bowl football game.

Michigan's 14-6 loss to Oklahoma cost Ford $2. He had made a bet with Sen. Dewey F. Bartlett, R-Okla., on the game.

The President also exchanged New Year's greetings by telephone with friends and members of his Cabinet.

Candidates receive government money

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government checks totaling $1.88 million are going out to 11 presidential candidates, the first ever to get direct taxpayer subsidies for their campaigns.

In today's disbursements, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., is getting the most, $492,030. President Ford is getting $374,422 and Democrat Terry Sanford $214,050.

Initial checks of $100,000 each are going to Republican Ronald Reagan and Democrats Birch Bayh, Jimmy Carter, Fred Harris, Henry M. Jackson, Morris Udall, George Wallace and Sargent Shriver. These candidates are auditing an additional $4.3 million, but auditors from the Federal Election Commission are still reviewing the claims.

Campaign emissaries planned to pick up the checks today at the Treasury Department.

The money is being paid under a law providing for partial public financing of presidential campaigns. Under the law, the government matches small, private donations raised by candidates. The funds come from persons who voluntarily designate on their federal income tax return that $1 of their taxes may be used for the purpose.

The only major presidential candidate who has yet to qualify for federal subsidies is Democrat Milton J. Shapp, governor of Pennsylvania.

To qualify for federal funds, a candidate must first raise at least $100,000 in donations of $250 or less, including at least $5,000 in each of 20 states.

The government then will match up to $250 of every donation the candidate can prove he received.

Plans for the federal money differed from campaign to campaign. The Udall camp earmarked it for delegate-hunting in Iowa, campaigning in primaries in New Hampshire and Massachusetts and for reviving Udall's dormant direct-mail appeals for private donations, which in turn could qualify Udall for even more federal matching money.

Sanford's campaign, which has been running in the red, planned to use the money to pay bills. "Its going to bring us out of the hole," said a spokeswoman. Any leftover cash will go to campaigning in New Hampshire and North Carolina, Sanford's do-or-die contest.

Bentsen's money was slated for primary campaigning in Mississippi, Oklahoma and South Carolina. Reagan's money will be spent "just like any other money we have raised," said Loren Smith, chief lawyer for the Reagan campaign.

Winter storm dumps snow across areas of mid-U.S.

By The Associated Press

A winter storm has dumped more heavy snow on the Upper Midwest.

A strong low pressure center spread snow from the Dakotas and northern Nebraska to western Michigan overnight.

The storm was drifting to the northeast, and snow had ceased or diminished to flurries over the northwestern plains. But strong winds gusting to over 40 miles per hour still were creating considerable blowing and drifting snow.

The greatest snow depth from the storm was measured at Chadron, Neb. with 20 inches.

Warnings for additional heavy amounts of snow and strong winds were in effect through today from the Dakotas into northern Michigan.

The storm also brought freezing rain and drizzle to parts of northern and eastern Iowa, southern Wisconsin, northern Illinois and northwest Indiana.

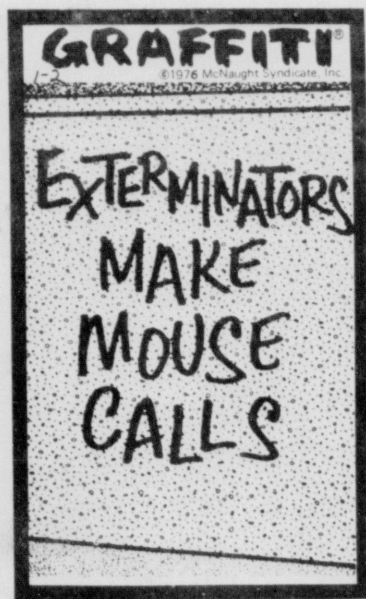

There were showers over the southern portions of Illinois and Indiana. A few thundershowers extended into Arkansas and extreme eastern Texas.

It was cloudy over the southern plains and extreme southern Rockies with snow scattered over southern New Mexico and extreme western Texas.

Clouds also extended from the midwest storm into the Ohio valley and central Appalachians. Mostly clear weather prevailed along the northern Atlantic coast, in the central and eastern Gulf states and across most of the West.

Temperatures below ten degrees were recorded over much of the Rockies, plateau and northwestern plains and also in the northern portions of New York and New England.

Temperatures overnight ranged from 71 at Ellington Air Force Base, Tex. to 11 below zero at Laramie and Evanston, Wyo.

Tragedies spoil New Year holiday

By The Associated Press

America ushered in the New Year with parades, Bicentennial events and the usual football games. But fires in the United States and an airline crash and a cafe fire overseas lent a touch of tragedy to the new year.

And others had to cope with a storm that dumped 19 inches of snow on parts of Wyoming and Nebraska.

As millions of Americans sat home Thursday to watch 11 hours of televised football, nearly 1.4 million spectators lined the streets of Pasadena, Calif., for the 87th annual Tournament of Roses parade. Police said it was the largest crowd in the pageant's history.

In Philadelphia, early risers and those who stayed up all night made a pilgrimage to the new home of the Liberty Bell on the first day of the nation's Bicentennial.

The famed bell was removed from Independence Hall early Thursday and placed in a newly built pavilion designed to accommodate the millions of visitors expected in 1976.

In Washington, President and Mrs.

Ford welcomed the new year in quiet fashion. Ford caught up on some paper work in his Oval Office, signed some bills, then spent part of the day Thursday like millions of others — watching football.

Southern California had some of the oddest weather. Snow fell Thursday at San Diego for the first time since Dec. 13, 1967, but it melted almost as soon as it landed.

A morning earthquake centered 20 miles east of Los Angeles was reported by the California Institute of Technology. There were no reports of injuries or property damage.

Pope Paul VI opened the year appealing for lasting peace.

"Nothing can be for man's well-being unless people live in harmony; respect each others' rights and engage in friendly discussion and constructive talks," the 78-year-old pontiff told a gathering in St. Peter's Square Thursday.

For some, the first day of 1976 will be remembered as a day of tragedy.

Fires swept through homes from

New England to the West Coast on New Year's Eve and into Thursday, killing more than 30 persons. Many of the victims were children, and some of them perished while their parents were away at celebrations.

A party at a crowded, two-room cafe in La Louviere, Belgium, ended with 16 dead and 33 injured when a flash fire stampeded revelers, and a Lebanese jetliner crashed into a Saudi desert in Lebanon Thursday, killing all 82 persons aboard.

Kacy Coady, 2, was killed in a Maryville, La., cemetery when the top portion of an old tombstone fell, crushing his head and chest. The boy's parents were taking him for a New Year's visit to the grave of his great-grandmother.

In some places, the New Year remained as violent as the old.

In Portugal, national guardsmen fired into a crowd at Oporto, killing three civilians. In Northern Ireland, terrorist bombs in Catholic and Protestant pubs killed three drinkers and injured others.

Market research company discloses different jobless rates

NEW YORK (AP) — For more than 20 years until early this year, said Albert Sindlinger, his market research company's independent survey of employment matched government figures to within one per cent.

Since April, Sindlinger & Co., which interviews 1,100 households a week by telephone, has found 1.5 million more jobless, using the official definition, than is currently being reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Because of this, Sindlinger has become an outspoken critic of the government's job figures, which in November showed 8.3 per cent of a 92,979,000-person labor force unemployed.

"The jobless rate should be much higher," he said. Using the government's own definition, that the person must be actively seeking work, it should have been over 9.2 per cent in November, he said.

By his own definition, "anyone who tells us they are out of work," the November jobless rate was 10.6 per cent.

"I'm baffled," he said, "in view of the fact that for two decades we were in almost complete agreement with the government figures. We've changed no definitions. We haven't changed our questions, ever."

Adding to the mystery, says Sindlinger, is that his survey still is within one-half of one per cent agreement with the larger government figure, that for the total labor force. In November it was within one-tenth of one per cent agreement.

"Why should we go so far off on the smaller figure after two decades of almost total agreement?" Sindlinger asked pointedly.

He has examined and re-examined his figures, which are used by many scores of businessmen, government officials, economists and stock brokers. He insists the government owes the public an explanation.

Prof. Charles Killingsworth is another critic with solid credentials, earned mainly in academia and government service.

A university professor of economics and labor and industrial relations at Michigan State University, Killingsworth is also chairman of the National Manpower Policy Task Force, a group of mainly university people, funded in part by the Labor Department. During the Korean War he was chairman of the Wage Stabilization Board.

As a measure of economic performance, he says, the jobless figures are understated and misleading.

In 1965, he reports, the Census Bureau and the Bureau of Labor Statistics began counting as employed those people in public works and college workstudy programs, most of whom were earlier considered jobless or not members of the labor force.

"Apply the same rationale retroactively and it would reduce the unemployment count during the late 1930s by one-third," he said.

"When they started this new definition in 1965 they never publicly reported it," he said. "I stumbled across it. The majority of so-called experts are unaware."

What impact has it had? Killingsworth explains: A low figure in the Public Service Employment Program was reached in August 1974 at 33,000 people. A new program was begun and by July 1975 the number involved leaped to 315,000.

"All these people were counted as employed," he said. "When reports tell us we've had a growth in employment a substantial part is due to the Public Service Employment Program," he explained.

The College Work-Study Program also helped lower the jobless rate. The program, said Killingsworth, had been "jogging along" at 500,000 worker-students. One hour of work in a survey week and they were considered employed, he said.

Family of 6 dies in blaze

GREENWOOD, Ind. (AP) — Officials report that autopsies on six members of a Greenwood killed in a house fire died of smoke inhalation and carbon monoxide poisoning.

They said Charles and Carol Roberson and their four children seemed to be trying to flee the flaming home when they were overcome.

The only survivor, Sarah White, 18, was reported in serious condition today in a hospital. She suffered severe burns.

Roberson, 45, a service station manager, was found dead in the living room of the family's home in Greenwood. His wife, Carol, 41, was discovered in the bedroom.

Found in a hallway were the children Mike, 7; Dale, 6; Gary, 5; and Sissy, 4.

Free tickets to the theater and sports events are called "Annie Oaklies" because they were punched with holes, like the cards the famed Ohio markswoman Annie Oakley hit in her shooting.

This past September the number jumped roughly 50 per cent, to more than 700,000, all of whom are counted as employed when, Killingsworth suggests, many of them actually would be without jobs or not in the labor force if they didn't have the government's assistance.

In 1967 more changes were made, serving further to depress the jobless rate. The definition of what constituted jobseeking, and thus who was to be counted as unemployed, was made more rigid. Youngsters 15 and 16 were dropped from both the labor force and the jobless count.

These changes, said Killingsworth, add up to a serious understating of the unemployment condition. "If we applied the old definitions, the unemployment rate today would be at least one full percentage point higher."

Church of God sets song fest

A "Gospel Song Fest" will be presented at the Church of God located on the corner of Rose Ave. and Pearl Ave. The song fest is scheduled to commence at 7:00 p.m. on Saturday, the illustrated Bible

God Creates the World

In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth... and (He) saw that it was good. Genesis 1:1-18

Only the words of the Bible itself can give proper scope to the miracle of creation. From the first line of Genesis, "In the beginning..." the simple tale of six days' wonders—told in less than six hundred words—is an awesome and inspiring testament. Unfolded before us, as in a giant panorama, we can almost see how, out of complete nothingness, God first produced light, then divided the light and the darkness, calling them day and night; how he created the land and the sea, then the sun and the stars in a firmament which he called heaven; then the greening of earth with myriad species of plant life and, at last, populating all with fish and fowl, beasts and cattle. And, as the Bible says, "found it good."

Catholic schools win church reprieve

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The auxiliary Bishop of the Toledo Roman Catholic Diocese says the Catholic schools in Delphos will remain open in spite of a continuing budget crunch.

Auxiliary Bishop Albert Ottenweller said the St. John Parish in Delphos is one of the largest in the diocese and the schools have the largest enrollment of Toledo Diocese parish with 920 elementary pupils and 550 in the high school.

Jan. 3, 1976, and included in the program will be the Way of the Cross Quartet and the Reynolds Family Singers.

The bishop said the combined budget for the church and the school this year was $777,000 and an additional $114,000 would be needed for operational costs in June.

But the bishop said there had been no discussion of closing the schools because "too many people are determined to see that they stay open."

Marietta, Ohio, was named in honor of Queen Marie Antoinette of France.

BLT sandwich turns into a soup

BLT SOUP — Inspired by America's popular bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwich.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Food Editor

Intrigued by a recipe for Bacon, Lettuce and Tomato Soup in a cookbook written by a California restaurateur, we devised our own version for you last spring and called it BLT Soup in good soda-fountain lingo. We managed to get all the ingredients that go into a Bacon, Lettuce and Tomato Sandwich into our soup except the bread and mayonnaise. Now another cook has gone us one better. When we invited her to devise still another version of BLT Soup she came up with the missing ingredients. She browns small squares of bread in mayonnaise for croutons and adds them to the soup! If you want to have the fun of serving this ingenious dish, here's her recipe.

ANOTHER BLT SOUP
8 slices bacon, cut into 1/2-inch crosswise pieces
1/2 cup chopped onion
10 3/4-ounce can condensed tomato soup

11-ounce can tomato bisque soup
1 1/2 soup cans water
Dash of pepper
1 cup shredded iceberg lettuce
Croutons, see below

In a medium saucepan over moderate heat, stirring often, cook the bacon until browned. Pour off all but 2 tablespoons of the drippings. Gently cook onion in the 2 tablespoons drippings, stirring often, until wilted. Add bacon, soups, water and pepper; stirring often, bring slowly to a boil. Add lettuce and simmer a few minutes. Serve with Croutons. Makes about 1 1/4 quarts.

Croutons: In a small skillet over low heat, stirring constantly, heat 2 tablespoons of mayonnaise. Add 1 1/2 cups small bread cubes and stir until browned.

Wedding date set Feb. 14

MISS CHERYL SCHIEBER

Miss Cheryl Schieber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Schieber of Danvers, Ill., and Mr. Kelly Bowen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bowen, also of Danvers, formerly of the Jeffersonville community, will be united in marriage Feb. 14. The wedding will take place in First United Methodist Church in Normal, Ill.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schieber of Danvers, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ruff of Pontiac, Ill.

Mrs. E. G. Bowen and Mrs. I. L. Booco, both of Jeffersonville, are grandmothers of the prospective bridegroom.

TACCHINO TONNATO (Tunned Turkey) is an economical version of the traditional Italian specialty, Vitello Tonnato, made with veal. Tabasco liquid red pepper enhances the creamy tuna sauce spooned over the cooled, sliced turkey breast. The pewter spoon in the foreground of the photo is a replica of a truly unique item known as the Copeland Spoon. Reproduced from oldest known dated piece of American pewter, the spoon is an example of seventeenth-century styling from the Jamestown, Virginia area. It has been reproduced by the Steiff Company of Baltimore as part of its Bicentennial Collection of historical pieces.)

Tacchino Tonnato: You don't sing it, you eat it!

In this recipe for Tacchino Tonnato (Tunned Turkey), a 5-pound turkey breast will serve six to eight persons. The turkey is cooked until tender in chicken broth, while wine and vegetables, sparked with Tabasco liquid red pepper seasoning. Part of this stock is used to further enhance the Tomato Sauce. This creamy sauce is easily made to smooth perfection in the blender. Should there be any left, it's very good poured over sliced tomatoes and salad greens. You see, there's no waste to this fine dish!

Crispy Italian bread will round out this appetizing menu quite nicely.

TACCHINO TONNATO

1 5-pound turkey breast
3 cans (13 3/4 ounces each) chicken broth
2 cups dry white wine

Young at heart

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

WHAT'S the secret of staying young even though you're well past retirement age? According to several remarkable women we interviewed recently, the secret lies in keeping busy, active, and with it. Talk to these women and one thing is immediately apparent: Age cannot wither, nor custom stale, youthful spirits.

Past 70, composer Kay Swift has just one complaint about her age: "People keep asking me about the good old days," she complained, "I can't imagine why. The days I'm living right now are as good as I could possibly ask for."

Way back when, Miss Swift, the toast of Broadway, wrote countless hit songs, including such standards as "Fine and Dandy," "Can This Be Love?" and "Can't We Be Friends," which was sung to fame by Libby Holman. She composed hit Broadway musicals and the scores for movies, and knew all the greats of the greatest Broadway era. During her Gershwin years, she moved in the glittering world of the brothers, Ira and George, adapting Gershwin's music for a film.

Still Going Strong

Now that she's over 70? Miss Swift is still doing what she does best — composing, orchestrating, recording, producing and promoting. Her latest achievement is a record album, released under the Mark 56 label, "Fine and Dandy — the Music of Kay Swift." It includes her hit songs of the past, a cycle of children's songs written for her grandchildren "because I didn't know how to knit for them," and several new compositions.

A woman who hates to relax because "it's more fun doing things," she was slowed down recently by a broken heel, the result of making a "grand entrance."

"I sailed into a party," she recalled, "said, 'Oh, what a magnificent room,' took a step forward and fell down two steps onto the living room floor."

Known for her Swift gait — she runs everywhere — she ruefully admits that, at least until the cast is removed, "I move like the great continental glacier."

But it hasn't slowed down her thinking, composing or plans. She's hoping to revive the hit show with its still popular title song, "Fine and Dandy," which she wrote in 1930.

At 82, a New Life Style

Another woman who has kept her place in the main stream of life is Hazel Dell Brown, who for 32 years was director of the interior design bureau of the Armstrong Cork Co. Instead of taking it easy, Mrs. Brown, now 82, recently embarked on a new project, designing and building what she calls "my dream house" in Lancaster, Pa.

2 teaspoons soy sauce
1 1/2 teaspoons sherry (medium, dry or sweet)

Most people her age would feel uprooted moving into a new house. Not Mrs. Brown who's been percolating the plan for better than 10 years. Discarding the idea at one point, she threw away the plans. When she decided to carry on, she was able to redraw them inch by inch from memory.

Her new home offered many challenges. Built on a 20-foot lot, it's only 11 feet wide by 44 deep. A two-story house, with 1,100 square feet of space, she terms it an exercise in the efficient use of space. Decorating pro that she is, Mrs. Brown used builtins to expand space and says she had all the furniture arranged in her head before she moved in.

Where age is concerned, she thinks her late years are her best.

"My best years were after 50," she said. "There's no need to grab at life when you're young because there can be much richness in life at any age. It's heartening to realize you can be active and adequate into your 80s."

Nomadic Life

Peggy Bird, who is over 70, is another woman who finds that meeting new challenges keeps her young. Married to Junius B. Bird, curator emeritus in the Department of Anthropology at the American Museum of Natural History, she accompanies her archeologist husband on field trips, serving as his assistant, helping to clean and sort ancient tools found at excavation sites and then, back at the Museum, assisting him in numbering and cataloging finds.

Mother of three sons and grandmother of five, she is as at home in a tent in some remote spot as she is in a hotel. Her current plans include joining her husband on a return trip to Panama to search the northwestern part of the country for the remains of people who migrated from North America.

An 'Old' Business

Countless other people past retirement age haven't gone as far afield as the Birds to keep active, busy and young. In Norwalk, Conn., for example, 16 are employed by Fertl, a small firm that markets starter material for garden plants. Its president, Hoyt Catlin is, at 85, still younger than his oldest worker, who is 91. With an average age of 68, the rest of Fertl's employees are all in their 60s, 70s and 80s. The company, founded by Catlin when he was 65, the usual retirement age, has been successful, he feels, because there's less absenteeism, less turnover and a great deal more loyalty and dedication.

The Fertl story goes hand in hand with the growing feeling that the expertise and experience of older people shouldn't be lost through retirement.

Firebombing trial enters 13th week

NEW HAVEN (AP) — The trial into the firebombing of the Sponge Rubber Products Co. enters its 13th week Monday, when the last of nine defendants will present his case.

An explosion and fire destroyed the Shelton firm last March 1. Nine men including the company's president are on trial in U.S. District Court on charges they conspired to blow up the factory.

Ohio Decorative's president, Charles D. Moeller of Cridersville, is a defendant in the trial.

A look-alike for a defendant in the federal arson case toured the factory nearly three weeks before it was blown up, an engineer for Sponge Rubber Products Co. has testified.

Sponge Rubber's chief engineer, Stephen Kordiak, said Wednesday that a representative of a New York City finance company was at the plant 18 days before it was firebombed. The finance company had backed purchase of the Shelton plant by Ohio Decorative Products Inc. of Spencerville, Ohio, he said.

Kordiak, testifying for defendant Anthony A. Just of Greensburg, Pa., said the man visiting the plant fit the general description of Just.

Just's attorney asked Kordiak if he and the look-alike had discussed explosives and the use of them, to which Kordiak answered, "yes."

Prosecutor Peter C. Dorsey objected and after lengthy private discussions at the bench, Judge Jon O. Newman barred further testimony on the topic.

Just concluded his defense Wednesday.

Also testifying Wednesday was Marie Fobes, girl friend and secretary of defendant Dennis C. Tiche of Boyers, Pa.

Community Ed report

By HANK SHAFFER
Program Director

This week's Community Education Report is going to be centered around the new set of classes that we will offer in a couple of weeks. In the past we have offered the winter set of classes starting in the middle of January. Due to the problem of fuel oil and heating the Middle School, we have held off in announcing when the classes will be held. We are still going to set our sights on having the classes start in the middle of January, but until we have a better idea of what the weather is going to be like, we will hold off until a later date.

We have had a couple of calls during the past week from people that are interested in taking one or more of our classes. They also gave us some ideas as to new classes that they would like to see us offer. Some of the classes that we have had in the past are cake decorating, crocheting, bridge lessons, knitting, quilting, typing, bookkeeping, shorthand, macrame, sewing, oil painting and many more along these lines. They include educational, recreational, and cultural enrichment activities and classes. If you have any desire to take a course through our program, or have an idea for a course that perhaps we have not yet offered, please give us a call at 335-6621. We will be glad to talk with you about it and give you any information that we can about the classes and our program.

During the past two weeks over the holiday season, we have offered two programs with the youngsters in mind. They were the 5th and 6th grade basketball activity and the open gym for all youngsters. Both of the programs went over very well with those that participated. They seemed to enjoy themselves and it gave them the opportunity to use the gym during the vacation period.

The basketball leagues that we help to sponsor are still playing at the Middle School Gym. The Industrial League plays on Monday and Wednesday evenings, while the Church League plays on Tuesdays and Thursdays. If you would like to come out and see some good local basketball, please feel free to come in and watch. There is no admission price to watch either league.

Next week we will give you more information on the coming classes. In the meantime, we need to hear from you as to what offerings you would like to participate in. We can only offer what you want if you let us know your wishes.

The Anti-Saloon League was formed at Oberlin, Ohio, in 1893.

Mamie said improving

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mamie Eisenhower is showing improvement in her battle against the viral condition which hospitalized her at Walter Reed Army Medical Center.
A bulletin issued Thursday by the hospital also said the former first lady "is alert and resting comfortably."
Results of medical tests "indicate that Mrs. Eisenhower had apparently contracted a viral infection which is now responding to treatment," a hospital spokesman said.
The 79-year-old widow of President

Dwight D. Eisenhower was taken ill at her farm home near Gettysburg, Pa., and rushed to the hospital by ambulance on Wednesday.
Mrs. Eisenhower in the past has suffered from a rheumatic heart and arthritis.
She was hospitalized last March at the Army Medical Center at Ft. Gordon, Ga., and then at Walter Reed for treatment of diverticulosis, an inflammation of the intestine that doctors said had caused internal bleeding.

Indiana license branches open

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — While other state workers had today off as part of the New Year's weekend, employees of the 187 license branches were on the job to meet an expected rush for Indiana's Bicentennial year plates.
Commissioner Ralph Van Natta of the motor vehicles bureau said, "I'm excited about this year's plate. It is colorful, attractive, boosts Indiana and is Bicentennial in design."

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — CBS News offers tonight a one-hour TV study of the 1968 assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., whether James Earl Ray did it, and, if so, whether he acted alone or as part of a conspiracy.
Ray pleaded guilty in a Tennessee court in 1969 to King's slaying in Memphis, but renounced that plea, to no avail. He later failed in a federal court bid to withdraw his plea and go on trial, but a new effort by him now is pending before a federal appeals court.
In tonight's show, correspondent Dan Rather says CBS News, in its probe into the slaying of King, the black civil rights leader and Nobel Peace Prize winner, tried to interview Ray in prison.
"But due to the repeated advice of his lawyers, he wouldn't talk for this broadcast," he adds. "So the best witness stands mute."

Like CBS' two-part November study of President John F. Kennedy's assassination, tonight's show revisits the scene of the slaying, restudies the evidence and interviews various persons, ranging from one of Ray's current lawyers to a Memphis landlady who rented Ray a room.
In the Kennedy shows, CBS cautiously concluded that while "it may never be established" whether Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone, "the evidence indicates" that Oswald "probably did" shoot Kennedy.
There's none of that in tonight's show. CBS fails to turn up any evidence of a conspiracy to kill King and doesn't offer any opinion, even a cautiously-worded one, on whom it thinks may have killed him.
It simply says, among other things, that Tennessee's case against Ray as a lone assassin "was not as air-tight as we had been told."

Columbus police in flap over flag

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Question: What's red, white and blue and leaving holes in the shirtsleeves of Columbus policemen?

Answer: The 600 American flag patches police chief Earl Burden has ordered removed from the officers' uniforms after Feb. 1.

Burden issued the command Tuesday, but was in Pasadena for the Rose Bowl on Thursday and unavailable for comment.

Col. Ralph Drown, Burden's executive officer, explaining the removal order, said, "Apparently the flag has run its course. I didn't ever see any particular reason to be wearing them anyway."

Drown said a five-man uniform committee believed the patches "were hard to keep on uniforms and were hard to line up...and detracted from the appearance of the uniform."

Though Burden's order comes on the eve of the nation's Bicentennial, Drown said he does not believe police are ignoring the 200th anniversary of the independence of the United States.

"We've got some things to take their (flag patches') place during the Bicentennial," he said. "We've decorated the police cruisers." Red, white and blue stripes adorn the sides of the police cars.

Flags were added during the administration of former Mayor M.E. Sensenbrenner and have adorned winter and summer uniforms for more than five years.

"It makes me heartsick," Sensenbrenner said when told of the decision. "The flag should remain on the uniform. It doesn't detract from a thing."

"That red, white and blue means freedom and it is a deep honor for policemen to wear it," Sensenbrenner said. "We need more display of the flag, not less."

The order to remove the patches has generated anger within police ranks.

"It's a bad idea," an officer said, "especially during the Bicentennial. I am proud of the flag. It's because I want to defend it and what it stands for that I am an officer in the first place."

Another officer echoed that sentiment and said Burden's order should not have been made during the

Bicentennial. "If he wants them off, okay, but couldn't he have waited until this time next year?"

However, a third policeman supported Burden. "The flag was never meant to be a decoration. He (Burden) should have done it a long time ago."

Drown said the order to remove the flags could be changed only by Burden if enough police officers express dissatisfaction.

Reorganization set by board

The Washington C.H. Board of Education will hold its annual reorganization meeting Monday night. The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the office of the superintendent, and consideration of a final draft of the 1976 budget will top the agenda.

The first order of business will be to install Hugh M. Rea as a member of the board. Elected in November, Rea will assume the seat vacated by James R. Hanawalt, who chose not to seek reelection. Also to be installed are Walter E. (Gene) Bienz and Robert Highfield, who were re-elected to serve another term.

Bienz and Highfield, who have served as president and vice president respectively, will vacate the posts and new officers will be chosen.

The most important item on the agenda is the presentation of the 1976 budget. While the cost of everything seems to be rising at an incredible rate, the board anticipates revenue for 1976 which is $50,000 less than it received in 1975. The combination of rising costs and declining revenue has made balancing the $2.3 million budget a difficult task.

Day care center personnel receive first aid course

The 45 children involved in the Kiddie Care Day-Care Center program located in the First Baptist Church at the corner of North and East streets are now under the supervision of trained first aid personnel.

Fayette County Red Cross First Aid chairman Paul Woods completed the instruction of a three-week first aid course on Dec. 9, during which six of the 16 women working in the day-care center qualified for basic first aid certification.

Woods explained the Occupational Health and Safety Act of 1972 made such training mandatory by law, requiring 10 hours of first aid training. His students completed 21 hours, covering such areas as artificial respiration, splints and bandages, emergency injuries, transporting the injured, poisoning, choking and control of bleeding.

One and often more of the certified personnel at the day-care center will always be on duty. The center opens its doors at 6:30 a.m. and ends its day at 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. State and federal licensing stipulate a maximum of 50 children. The 45 children now participating range in age from three years through six years. Fees range from $15.50 to $20 per week and are pro-rated on the parent's income. The center was organized in May, 1972 and is presently directed by Juanita Phillips.

Employees completing the first aid course were Evelyn Rice, Dorothy Everhart, Joy Gleadall, Juanita Phillips, Martha Dresbaugh and Patty Dixon.

Fremont peak conquered

PINEDALE, Wyo. (AP)—The leader of a successful expedition up 13,730-foot Fremont Peak said Thursday the seven climbers will start their descent on Friday after spending the night in snow caves near the 13,730-foot summit.

Courtney Skinner, 39, radioed that the party conquered the peak at mid-afternoon on New Year's Day. The group had set out to climb another Wind River Mountains peak, Gannett, but was diverted to Fremont because of blizzard conditions on the original objective.

Skinner reported that the temperatures were 13 below zero and skies were clear when the climbing team returned to their snow caves at 13,000 feet for the night. He said the group plans to return to Pinedale on Sunday.

Fremont Peak is about 20 miles northeast of Pinedale in northwestern Wyoming.

Other climbers on the expedition are Mack Ellerby, Chris Chidsey and Ted Handwerk, all of Denver, Colo.; Bruce MacWilliams, Gladwyne, Pa.; Steven Porter, Chagrin Falls, Ohio; and Webber Hudson, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich.

Ben Pitman introduced his system of shorthand while teaching painting in Cincinnati.

Cincy faces safety force job action

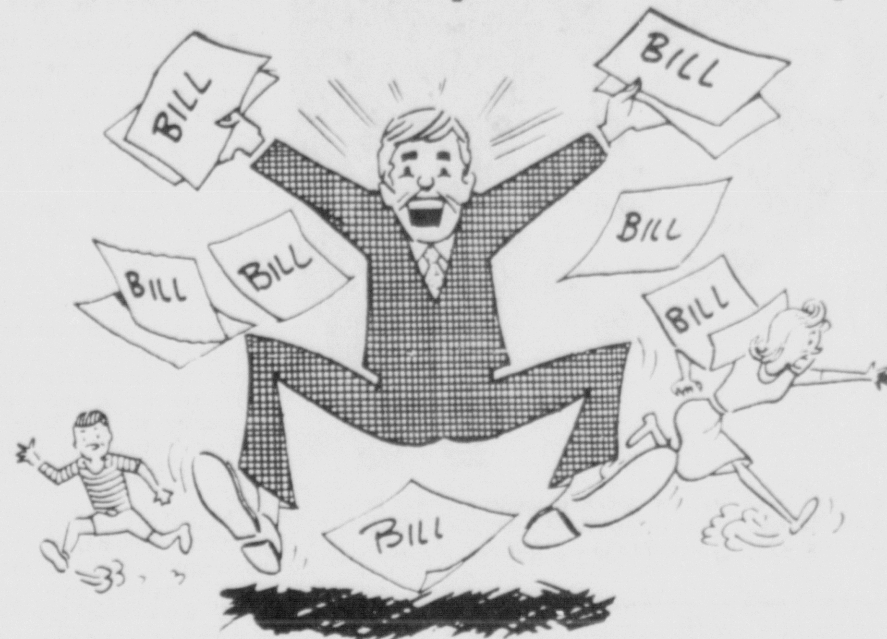

CINCINNATI (AP)—Today was to be a busy one for negotiators representing about 6,000 city employees and also for city officials who are trying to untangle contract deadlocks which have left workers without a contract.

Al Van Hagen, head of the American Federation of State County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), says he planned to be in the city manager's office at exactly 7:50 a.m.

"We are told that's the best time to catch him," said Van Hagen, whose group represents about 3,800 employees. Van Hagen said he had made "significant progress" in talks Wednesday, although there were still problems to be cleared up.

DP&L including more data on electric bills

DAYTON — The Dayton Power and Light Co. is now including additional information on electric bills.

Recently, the state enacted a law which required all Ohio electric utilities to indicate three things on each month's statement: (1) the total cost of fuel which is included in each customer's bill (2) the fuel charge for each kilowatt hour and (3) the difference between the present and previous month's fuel charge on a per kilowatt hour basis. The new information is not used in calculating the billing for electric service, and there are no changes in rates or billing calculations. Customers will now know exactly how much of their monthly bill is for total fuel costs.

The new information is a combination of two items - the Electric Fuel Adjustment per Kilowatt Hour (KWH) and the amount of the fuel cost in the "base rate". The combination of these two items is the total fuel cost.

Previously, DP&L indicated only the "Electric Fuel Adjustment Per KWH". This will continue to be on the stub portion of the bill.

The new information appears as a notation in the upper right hand corner of the bill stub.

Customers using 800 KWH this month will have the following notation on their bills: "Bill Includes $7.82 Electric Fuel Charge at .00978 Per KWH Which Is $.00102 Per KWH Less Than Last Month."

The fuel adjustment procedure has not changed from past practice. The new information effects only the electric portion of the bill. Customers who have DP&L natural gas service will continue to have only the "Cost Adjustment Factor Per CCF" (hundred cubic feet) noted on the bill.

The new procedure does not effect the total bill in any way. The fuel cost has always been a part of the total electric bill, but this is the first time it has been itemized separately.

82 aboard die in desert plane crash

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Rescue squads resumed their search in the desert wastes of northeastern Saudi Arabia today for missing victims of a Lebanese airliner crash that took the lives of all 82 persons aboard, an airline spokesman said.

Kamal Sinno of Middle East Airlines said 73 bodies were recovered by nightfall Thursday, 12 hours after the wreckage was found 30 miles north of the town of Thof Qaisouma. The town is just south of an oil-rich neutral zone on the Persian Gulf shared equally by Saudi Arabia and Kuwait.

The recovered bodies were taken by helicopter to the Saudi oil port of Dahrhan, where MEA officials were trying to identify each victim, Sinno added.

The plane, a Boeing 707, carried a 15-member Lebanese crew and 67 passengers. Most of the passengers were Lebanese and Egyptians, but there were also four Britons, two Frenchmen, six Greeks, a Norwegian and a Cypriot, MEA said.

Sinno said the jetliner, on a regular flight from Beirut to Dubai and Muscat, was found split into three parts. He said wreckage was scattered over a two-mile area.

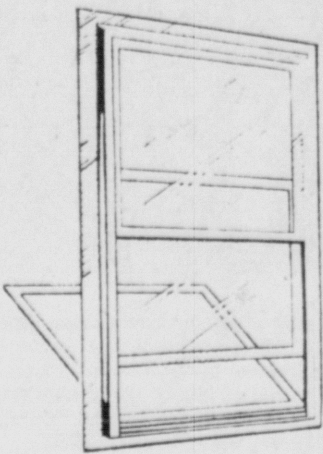

"The small wreckage area negates the possibility of midair explosion. Then the wreckage would have been spread over a much larger area," he added.

However, Sinno said no cause for the crash had yet been established.

"An airline investigation team has just begun searching for clues in the wreckage.

Faculty member appointed

WILMINGTON — Milton K. Farquhar has been appointed a full-time faculty member at Southern State College's north campus in Wilmington.

The appointment was announced by Dr. Vivian Franz, dean of the north campus in Wilmington.

Farquhar was a part-time instructor in accounting during the fall quarter at Southern State College. He will now be responsible for teaching all accounting courses and one management technology course at the north campus.

A graduate of the University of Cincinnati, Farquhar holds a bachelor of business administration degree with a major in accounting. Since 1958 he has been corporate secretary-treasurer and general manager of the Farquhar Co., a Wilmington-based contracting firm.

Farquhar lives at 1065 Peggy Lane, Wilmington, with his wife and five children.

Medics start slowdown

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A doctors' work slowdown over malpractice insurance rates has begun here, but the normally slow holiday period prevents an assessment of its effects until next week.

Hospital spokesmen said statistics on the slowdown, which began Thursday, would not be available until Monday because there is no way to tell this week if doctors are staying out in protest of the insurance situation or simply because of the holidays.

A survey by the Hospital Council of Southern California found 14 hospitals in the San Fernando Valley had been affected even before the slowdown officially began Thursday, a spokesman for County USC Medical Center said.

Doctors' groups throughout the state are protesting proposed new malpractice insurance rates that would cost physicians at least four times what they now pay.

Phoenix Insurance Co., a subsidiary of Travelers Insurance Co. of Hartford, Conn., has asked for a 486 per cent increase, but the state insurance commissioner says he will fight any increase above 327 per cent. Phoenix carries most of the malpractice policies in the state.

The state has offered to operate a doctor-pooled insurance fund but has insisted that doctors repay it by giving 20 days a year of free care for the needy plus a commitment to treat all Medi-Cal patients. The doctors rejected that proposal Wednesday and negotiations resume today.

Medi-Cal is a state tax funded health insurance program for the poor and the retired.

It was not clear how many of the state's doctors would join the slowdown.

Review of jobless statistics being urged

NEW YORK (AP) — Julius Shiskin, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, is among those who would like a blue ribbon committee appointed to review concepts and procedures used in developing official employment statistics.

Nevertheless, Shiskin, who is responsible for gathering and reporting the figures, generally defends present concepts and techniques as sound, if sometimes imperfect. A review is needed, he feels, to satisfy critics.

Doubts about the figures have grown this year. Some users of the jobless rate feel the true level and meaning of unemployment is poorly understood, and that the figures are badly understated.

Shiskin, whose ability and integrity are highly regarded even by most critics, concedes there have been problems with the measurements, but he maintains they do the job, and that the official jobless rate — 8.3 per cent in November — is a good measure.

"It has multiple uses," he said. "It's a good cyclical indicator. It's an excellent measure of economic performance. And it is also a good indicator of economic and psychological hardship."

The procedures used by Shiskin are largely a product of the Committee to Appraise Employment and Unemployment Statistics, created in 1961 and commonly called the Gordon Committee for its chairman, Prof. Robert A. Gordon.

Shiskin praises the Gordon Committee recommendations. Still, he concedes some serious changes have developed since then, such as an increase of women in the labor force and the extension of jobless benefits, both of which might tend to change procedures and interpretations.

Gordon, an economist at the University of California-Berkeley, believes another committee should be created partly because the distribution of many millions of dollars in revenue sharing depend upon local job statistics, which at best can be trusted only "cautiously."

Alfred Teller's criticisms have been of a different nature. Teller, now a Census Bureau Employee, declines to comment from that position, but during his years at Georgetown University he attacked what he felt was subjective questioning and analysis.

Among his many criticisms was that a lot of people would rather say they weren't looking for a job than admit to a questioner that they were unable to get work. Some might say they were ill, he found, and thus eliminate themselves from the labor statistics.

Through his research and that of others he found a curious recurrence: Many of the reasons people give for not being in the labor force have a cyclical nature, developing as alibis and excuses when jobs are hard to get.

Shiskin is aware of this and other criticism and says he considers it healthy. He concedes that, "This year we had a very serious problem of seasonal adjustment." A new adjustment factor might be introduced in February, he said.

The deteriorating economic situation early this year also produced a big difference between findings of the bureau's establishment, or business employment survey, and its monthly jobless survey of households. The former had a much greater number without jobs.

As the year ends, the BLS still hasn't brought the surveys into agreement, although Shiskin says, "We're closer than before." The original difference, he said, was "adjusted" to 400,000. "Now it's less."

The measurements are, as Shiskin says, "two different universes," but generally they are in closer agreement, and some critics maintain the difference must be reconciled or else conceptual or procedural errors must be admitted.

All statistical techniques have imperfections. Dissatisfaction is common and so is the search for better methods. But Shiskin believes another committee's findings "could well come out close to those of the Gordon Committee."

Some critics aren't nearly as convinced. Sindlinger & Co., a market research organization that maintains its own figures, says flatly that the BLS understates unemployment, even within its own definition, by more than one million.

"I promised when I came into this job to seek a review," said Shiskin. "I tried to set it up in June 1973 at my confirmation. I've been working on it ever since."

The recommendation, forwarded by Labor Secretary John Dunlop, is now at the White House, he said.

Plan to publish CIA agent names

WASHINGTON (AP) — A coeditor of the magazine "Counterspy" says the publication is not responsible for the death of Richard S. Welch and plans to print the names of about 70 other CIA agents in an upcoming edition.

Coeditor Doug Porter said the CIA agents' names will be picked up from newspapers in France, Sweden and Angola. He said about 60 names are to be published next week by the newspaper Liberation in France.

Porter said names of five CIA agents have been published by a newspaper in Sweden and the "Counterspy" staff has been told names of "half a dozen" have been published in Angola.

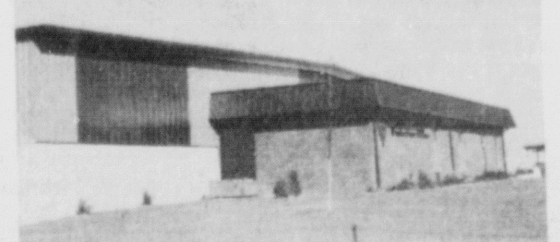

8 persons killed on Indiana roads

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Eight persons were killed in Indiana traffic accidents during a three-hour period New Year's day, helping to boost the New Year's holiday weekend toll toward double figures.

Indiana traffic safety officials had predicted 12 persons would die during the 102-hour weekend, which began at 6 p.m. Wednesday and ends at midnight Sunday.

Johnson to take over Bengals

Paul Brown quits as coach

CINCINNATI (AP) — Paul Brown, the dean of National Football League coaches whose success during a 41-year career served as a hallmark of excellence, resigned Thursday as the head coach of the Cincinnati Bengals.

"It's unfortunate," said Bengals tight end Bob Trumpy. "He's the last of the old line coaches. George Halas is gone. Vince Lombardi is gone and now Paul Brown."

Brown, in a move whose suddenness shocked both his players and assistant coaches, said that he was retaining his position as the team's general manager and named assistant Bill Johnson as his successor.

"We had no inkling of his decision," said center Bob Johnson, who was the first player drafted by Brown when he took over the newly-organized Bengals in 1967. "He was one of the founding fathers of football. He was one of the shaping forces in the National Football League and will probably continue it. He won't stop."

A Bengal spokesman said Brown, who was named to the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1967, was at his winter home on the West Coast and did not elaborate on his reasons for stepping down after guiding the Bengals to an 11-

PAUL BROWN

3 season, their most successful season since their inception eight years ago. However, the 67-year-old Brown had always previously brushed aside questions of retirement.

"I can only say what I have said many times," he said last winter. "I'll continue coaching as long as it doesn't weigh too heavily."

The soft-spoken Brown concluded his 41st year of coaching with a total record of 351 wins, 133 losses and 16 ties, including a professional mark of 213-114-10 and NFL titles in 1950, 1954, and 1955.

That figured out to about a .725 winning percentage in his four decades of coaching.

In his first 10 seasons as a pro coach, he won a league or division title every year.

He carved his niche in professional football by fashioning the Cleveland Browns into a powerhouse in the old All-America Football conference. The Browns won 52, lost only four and tied three in four championship seasons before moving into the National Football League.

He continued his success when the Browns moved into the NFL and only once in 13 years did he have a losing season while coaching the likes of quarterback Otto Graham, fullback Marion Motley, and later NFL all time rushing leader Jim Brown.

His most bitter moment came in 1962 when the Browns fired him, claiming the game had passed him by and Brown stayed away from the pro game for five years before he seized a chance to return and fashion a new team, the emerging Bengals.

His retirement comes at a time when the Bengals appear to be blossoming into a Super Bowl contender behind passing sensation Ken Anderson.

Brown graduated from Miami of Ohio University and after deciding against a career as a lawyer, he established himself as a successful high school coach at Massillon High School in Ohio where he had an 80-8 record.

He won a national title while coaching at Ohio State from 1941-43 and had a 18-8 record, then had success with the Great Lakes Naval Training Center team before forming the Browns in 1946.

He was known for his innovative coaching techniques which included being first to employ a year-round coaching staff, grading players from individual film clips, calling plays from the sidelines by rotating guards as messengers, and inventing face bars on helmets.

Johnson was on a scouting trip in Texas when the news about Brown's retirement came.

"I am honored that Paul Brown would select me as his successor. I am in complete accord with the program here," said the 49-year-old Johnson, a standout at Texas A&M and former all-pro center during a 10-year career with the San Francisco 49ers. He was later offensive line coach for 11 years with the 49ers and came to the Bengals as an offensive line coach when they began play in 1968.

"If you took a survey of the players and asked them if and when Paul (Brown) stepped down, who they would like to have succeed him, it would be overwhelmingly in favor of Johnson," said center Bob Johnson.

"He's a very intense guy with an aptitude to inspire people. He's already got the respect of the players. It was a good choice."

Mike McCormack, recently fired as coach of the Philadelphia Eagles, has been named to fill Johnson's old job working with the offensive line.

Sports briefs

Archie Griffin hurt early in game

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin of Ohio State suffered a fractured bone in his left hand during the Buckeyes 23-10 Rose Bowl loss Thursday to UCLA.

A team physician said Griffin would be sidelined for four to five weeks, which will cost him an appearance in the Hula Bowl in Honolulu Jan. 10.

"It happened on the third play of the game," said Griffin, who gained 93 yards in the loss. "I was going for the ball and somebody hit my hand."

Western Michigan has perfect record

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Proving the prophets right, Western Michigan has stormed through its preconference basketball season to a 7-0 record as the Mid-American Conference season opens Saturday.

It is the Bronco's best effort since 1946-47, when they won eight in a row going into MAC competition.

Western Michigan was the preseason choice of coaches and writers to take the top spot in the conference this year.

Honors scheduled for Rose

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — All-American Archie Griffin, top college football player of 1975, and the Cincinnati Reds' Pete Rose will be honored here Jan. 12 by the Philadelphia Sports Writers Association.

Griffin, the Ohio State running back, set three national collegiate records while helping the Buckeyes to an 11-0 season and Thursday's date in the Rose Bowl against UCLA.

Saginaw, Muskegon tie 3-3

Six players got into the scoring action as the Saginaw Gears and Muskegon Mohawks fought to a 3-3 tie in an International Hockey League game before a sellout crowd of 5,465 fans in Saginaw on New Year's night.

Rockets top Trail Blazers; win 110-107

By The Associated Press

John Johnson has something to be happy about, having gotten the new year off to a good start in leading the Houston Rockets to victory against his former teammates, the Portland Trail Blazers.

When the Rockets have needed "JJ," which hasn't been often this National Basketball Association season, the 6-foot-7 forward has been there for Coach John Egan. Thursday night he scored 22 points, 14 of them in the final period, to give Houston a 110-107 triumph.

"Johnson has had three good games in a row for us," said Coach Egan after the victory. "There have been periods where he hasn't played much and I've asked him to work extra hard on his own to keep in top shape. He is a pro and he has done it."

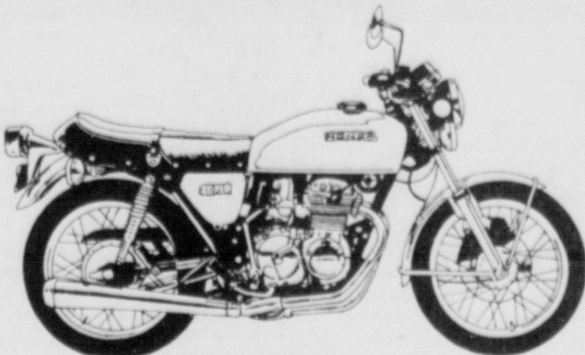

Lack of playing time is what led to Johnson's mid-November trade from Portland for forward-center Steve Hawes. But Coach Len Wilkens of the Trail Blazers, who blew a five-point lead in the closing three minutes, found kind words for his former co-worker.

"JJ hit some fine clutch shots on us there at the end," Wilkens said.

"You've seen me shoot that way before," a modest Johnson said after the victory. "It feels good, real good. This was a big win for us. I just kind of got lucky."

In the only other NBA game Thursday night, the Washington Bullets recorded a 114-103 victory over the Phoenix Suns. The American Basketball Association took the night off.

Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures
By SYD KRONISH

The Bicentennial of the American Revolution is also uncovering many other milestones connected with the anniversary resulting in the issuance of special stamps by foreign lands. Bermuda, for example, has issued a new set of four stamps commemorating the 200th anniversary of its "gunpowder plot" which helped the colonial cause.

The new stamps mark the theft, during the American Revolution, of 100 barrels of English gunpowder from the Royal Magazine in Bermuda by those sympathetic to the American cause. In 1775 the gunpowder was taken from the magazine, rolled to waiting whaleboats in Tobacco Bay and rowed to American ships waiting offshore.

It is interesting to note that when the colonial governor sought Bermudian ships and sailors to pursue the American vessels, he found no volunteers and thus the American ships sailed away without interference.

The stamps depict various scenes of this hazardous episode. Each stamp bears the inscription "200th anniversary of Gunpowder Plot at St. Georges 1775 — American War of Independence." The values are 5 cents, 17 c, 20 c and 25 c.

The 1976 edition of the Minus New American Stamp Catalog is being termed "The American Bicentennial Edition." The 345-page catalog includes a six-page introduction which tells the story of how the postal system started in America.

BENNY GOODMAN GIVEN PROCLAMATION NEW YORK (AP) — At a concert by Benny Goodman and a combo at the Schaefer Music Festival in Central Park, a proclamation from the office of Percy Sutton, borough president of Manhattan, was read.

In part, it said, "In 1935 the era that was to become known as the Swing Era was born. Benny Goodman was designated as its king. We salute the 40th anniversary of Benny Goodman as King of Swing."

The group gave a long concert, with Goodman in top form. The music got as hot as the weather during "Back Home Again in Indiana."

In 1836, Texans wanted more than tacos from Mexico. They wanted their independence.

And they got it.

But once a republic, the next step was statehood. So the American government issued a five-percent stock to help pay for the annexation. And the citizens welcomed their new neighbors by quickly buying up the stock.

Today, Americans still help their country grow by buying United States Savings Bonds—at banks and through the Payroll Savings Plan at work.

And while they help their country, they help themselves to safe, dependable savings.

Take stock in America with United States Savings Bonds.

You just can't buy a better country.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deducted until redemption.

Meaning of 'Walking' Pneumonia

My mother was told that she had "walking pneumonia." I've heard this term before and don't understand it. Can you explain?

Miss E.B., Ore.

Dear Miss E.B.:

There are two commonly used terms about pneumonia that seem to confuse the layman. These terms are "walking pneumonia" and "double pneumonia."

Walking pneumonia refers to a person who has been "walking around" without any symptoms of an existing mild infection. However, it is rare for a true pneumonia to be present without any evidence of it.

The term "double pneumonia" means that both lungs are involved in the infection. The condition, therefore, may be more serious because of the wider distribution of the infection.

Another confusing term is "I almost had a touch of pneumonia" or "I was on the verge of pneumonia." There is no "almost pneumonia." Either it is present or it is not.

The clinical diagnosis of pneumonia can be substantiated by X-rays of the chest. Since the advent of the antibiotics, pneumonia and its complications have been sharply reduced.

My 80-year-old father has a severe case of shingles. He is despondent over the length of time the doctor says a cure will take. Are there any new forms of treatment that can speed his recovery?

Mrs. V.M.E., R.I.

Police, deputies check 10 holiday traffic mishaps

Both the Fayette County Sheriff's Department and the Washington C.H. Police Department reported numerous traffic accidents as 1975 drew to a close, including one involving a city police cruiser. The few injuries which resulted from those accidents were not serious. City police report no traffic mishaps thus far in 1976; however, sheriff's deputies have already investigated their first traffic mishap in the new year.

POLICE

WEDNESDAY, 1:13 p.m. — A car driven by Ronald D. Funk, 19, of 410 Blackstone Ave., ran a stop sign at the corner of North Street and Oakland Avenue and wound up in Fred R. Jones' front yard at 632 N. North St. Funk was charged with driving while intoxicated and failing to obey a traffic sign.

2:55 p.m. — Cars driven by David D. Ellis, 49, of 305 Clearview Road, and Rosie L. Kingery, 28, Milledgeville, collided while backing from parking spaces in the municipal parking lot on S. Fayette Street.

2:40 p.m. — Cars driven by Steven O. Lunsford, 22, Dayton, and Chester T. Steed, 41, of 738 Eastern Ave., collided at the intersection of Delaware Street and Eastern Avenue when Steed pulled from a stop sign into Lunsford's path. The initial collision caused Lunsford to strike a fire hydrant and a street sign. His passenger, Linda K. Lunsford, 21, Dayton, showed visible signs of injury at the accident scene, but was not treated according to hospital staff. Steed was cited for failing to yield right of way. Police noted this accident report was made by Fayette County Sheriff's Deputy Robert L. Russell since all available police were investigating other traffic mishaps at the time.

1:53 p.m. — Cars driven by Larry M. Hott, 29, New Holland, and John D. Hunt Sr., 30, of 1003 Lakeview Ave., collided on Clinton Avenue near the Draper Street intersection while Hott, who is a Washington C.H. police specialist, was en route to an accident at the intersection of W. Court Street and Circle Avenue (see below). Investigating officer at the scene, Police Specialist William Robinson, explained Specialist Hott was driving in the oncoming traffic lane, passing vehicles with the flashing lights on the cruiser in operation when Hunt made a left turn into Kroger's in front of Hott, who applied his brakes but slid on wet pavement. Hott claimed injury from the mishap and Hunt's passenger, Mary K. Hunt, 27, of 1003 Lakeview Ave., sustained a nose contusion, but did not require treatment. Spec. Robinson charged Spec. Hott with improper passing. The cruiser siren had not been on.

1:48 p.m. — A car driven by Wendell P. Logan, 17, Jeffersonville, struck a van driven by Richard L. Adermatt, 27, Chillicothe, in the rear at the intersection of W. Court and Circle avenues. Logan was charged with failure to maintain an assured clear distance ahead.

11:55 a.m. — Cars driven by Patty F. Evans, 23, of 819 Temple St., and Steven K. Walters 22, of 915 Millwood Ave., collided in the 200 block of N. Main Street. Police stated a legally parked pickup truck had obscured Ms. Evans' view of the oncoming Walters vehicle.

11:14 a.m. — An accident at the intersection of Market and North streets involved cars driven by Cecil M. Grooms, 44, of Ohio 729, and James P.,

Hutton, 53, of 608 E. Market St. Police reported minor damage.

10:55 a.m. — An accident on Clinton Avenue occurred when a car driven by Thomas W. Smith, 54, of 310 N. Hinde St., attempted to exit the Pennington Bakery lot while a car driven by Willis J. VanDyke, 27, Bloomingburg, was entering the lot. Police stated Smith's auto rolled into VanDyke's path. No citations were issued and damage was estimated as slight.

SHERIFF

THURSDAY, 8:45 a.m. — A car driven by James E. Webb, 45, Washington C.H., struck a parked auto belonging to Effie L. Johnson, 44, Mount Sterling, while turning into an alley off Ohio 207, three-tenths of a mile north of Washington-Waterloo Road.

Damage was slight to the Johnson auto and moderate to the Webb car.

7:50 a.m. — A car driven by Carolyn S. Greene, 19, New Holland, traveled out of control on the southbound entrance ramp of I-71 at the Ohio 41-N junction. Ms. Greene skidded broadside 150 feet before going off the right side of the ramp and hitting a reflector post and fence owned by the state of Ohio. Sheriff's deputies reported moderate damage and no injury.

WEDNESDAY, 8:10 p.m. — A car belonging to George D. Bradshaw, 29, Wagner Court, rolled into a parked auto owned by David H. Grooms, 36, Columbus, in the Sulky Restaurant parking lot, U.S. 22-E in Union Township. Deputies reported moderate damage to both cars.

Mount Sterling man nabbed on 3 charges

A Mount Sterling man has been arrested by Washington C.H. Police and charged with driving while intoxicated, no operator's license and the illegal transport of firearms.

Robert L. Ailstock, 40, was charged at 7:25 p.m. Thursday when two loaded rifles were seen in his car parked at Hidy Food Store, Columbus Avenue, by Washington C.H. police officer Larry Mongold.

Police also reported the arrest of two Washington C.H. women involved in an assault incident. They stated Barbara J. Haley, 20, of 632 E. Paint St., and Anita L. Evans, 28, of 212 Highland Ave., came to the Brenda Montgomery residence, 114 E. Circle Ave., at 2:30 a.m. Thursday and upon Ms. Montgomery's opening the door to the women she was struck in the face by Ms. Evans and Ms. Haley thrust her fist through the storm door window. Ms. Evans was charged with assault and Ms. Haley was charged with criminal mischief.

Incidents involving auto theft, property destruction, a second assault and larceny were also reported by police today. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported four theft incidents today.

A car belonging to George W. Hatfield, was stolen from the front of his 421 S. Fayette St. residence sometime between 5 p.m. and 5:45 p.m. Thursday, police reported. The auto was described as a white and orange 1974 Pinto, license 348633.

Florida trooper slain by gunman

APOLLO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A mounted posse and dozens of policemen are searching for a man who fatally wounded an off-duty state trooper after terrorizing the trooper's neighbors.

"We're sure he's still hiding somewhere in the swamps or woods," a spokeswoman for the Hillsborough County Sheriff's office said early today. "It's a shocking case. There was just no provocation. No reason for the shooting."

Trooper Kenneth Flynt, 52, died at Tampa General Hospital late Thursday. He had been shot once in the head early Thursday morning after a gunman hammered on the door of his home here. Flynt, a 19-year veteran of the force, was due to retire in six months. Sheriff's Major Walter Heinrich gave this account of the shooting:

A man, said by witnesses to be in his 20s with long blond hair, banged on the front door at the home of Flynt's neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wasylyk, shortly before 4 a.m.

Wasylyk and his brother, Dick, visiting from Winnipeg, Canada, answered the door and were confronted by a man holding a gun and a tire iron. The gunman forced the brothers to lie down on the living room floor, demanding the keys to the car and threatened to take one of the men with him.

Mrs. Wasylyk tried to go to the kitchen door. The gunman raised the pistol, but said, "I'm not going to shoot a woman." He turned the gun toward one brother, taunted, "Do you think you're brave?" and fired a shot near his head.

The gunman repeated the question and fired close to the second brother's head, then backed through the front door and fired twice more in the air. In the confusion, Mrs. Wasylyk slipped out and ran next door to wake up the Flynts.

As Flynt answered the door, he was met by the gunman, who shot twice. One bullet hit Flynt in the head.

Police spent the day searching for the suspect with little success. Officers even went from house to house to make certain that no other family in the small town, south of Tampa, was being held hostage.

"Our House" at Gallipolis, now an Ohio museum, once sheltered many famous guests. It was built as an inn in 1819 from bricks brought from England as ballast for a sailing vessel.

NEW COUNCILMEN — John F. Morris, left, and James F. Ward took the oath of office Friday morning before being seated as members of the Washington C.H. City Council. City Solicitor Gary D. Smith, right, administered the oath to the new Council members as well as Joseph O. O'Brien.

Morris and Ward are making their first appearance on the city legislative body. O'Brien, who was later chosen as chairman, is beginning his second term. All three were elected in the November general election.

Library board appointments made

Ward, Morris assume seats at Council's reorganization

Two new members took the oath of office before assuming seats on the Washington C.H. City Council Friday morning, and Council then reorganized, electing new officers and appointing committee members.

Other matters presented at the brief first-of-the-year meeting included appointments to the Carnegie Public Library board of trustees and discussions of "emergency" legislation and suspension of the three-readings rule.

John F. Morris, 793 McLean St., and James F. Ward, 549 Damon Drive, took the oath of office administered by city solicitor Gary D. Smith. Both were elected for their first term on the city's legislative body in November. Council member Joseph O. O'Brien, 120 Gardner Court, who was re-elected to serve another term, reaffirmed the oath he took four years ago.

Retiring from City Council were Donald E. Wood and John E. Rhoads. Wood, who is employed as a teacher at Washington Senior High School, had served on the Council for the past eight years. Wood also does psychological testing at Orient State Institute and increased responsibilities there were a primary factor in his decision to seek another term, Wood said.

Several members commended Wood on his contributions to City Council and the community during his two terms. The retiring Council member had noted at the final 1975 Council meeting that he had thoroughly enjoyed his association with other members and the challenges met by Council during the past eight years. A member of the Washington C.H. Planning Commission, Wood said he will retain that responsibility and will remain active in city affairs.

Rhoads, Council's most outspoken member during his four-year tenure, was not present at the reorganizational meeting.

Farm labor election plan works well in California

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — California's fledgling farm labor election process, despite demands for revisions, begins the new year with a record of more elections in four months than the National Labor Relations Board held in its first full year.

A total of 376 elections were conducted on individual ranches during the four months, according to Associated Press statistics.

Officials of the Agricultural Labor Relations Board, the agency that administers the historic act, like to point out that the NLRB conducted only 203 elections during its first year in the 1930s.

Agriculture was left out of the National Labor Relations Act, and the California law thus resulted in the first massive farm labor elections ever held in the nation.

The California board is caught in the middle. Growers and the Teamsters union claim the board and staff favor the United Farm Workers, and UFW officials claim some decisions favored growers or the Teamsters.

Growers have launched a drive for amendments this year to the act adopted by the California legislature last spring after a decade of farm union organization strife.

Supporters of the law note that, despite controversy over its implementation, violence was kept at a minimum during the election process which began in early September.

The Cesar Chavez-led UFW and the Teamsters stayed pretty even during the first few weeks of balloting at key table grape and lettuce ranches, focal points of their rivalry for years.

But the UFW steadily pulled ahead as its organizers persistently forced elections at ranches throughout the state. The Teamsters concentrated on retaining bargaining rights at the numerous ranches where it already had contracts.

By year's end, the UFW had won more than half the elections held, according to the AP tally. The UFW had 185 victories covering 18,000 workers compared with the Teamsters' 110 victories covering 11,000 workers.

The "no union representation" option on the ballot won a majority vote at 25 ranches involving 2,000 workers. Eight elections were won by miscellaneous unions, and 48 remain undecided due to challenged ballots.

The UFW also held a solid lead in the total votes it received, again getting about half of the more than 40,000 cast. The AP's figures show the UFW received 54 per cent of all votes counted, with the Teamsters trailing at 29 per cent. Seventeen per cent of the ballots were for no union.

Morris, who teaches mathematics at the Washington C.H. Middle School, said he has been looking forward to participating on Council for a long time. November marked his third attempt at winning a seat on City Council.

He added that he felt "things are on (Please turn to Page 2)

City Council elects O'Brien as chairman

Past Washington C.H. City Council vice chairman Joseph O. O'Brien stepped up to the top Council post Friday morning, and Mrs. Bertha McCullough was selected to succeed O'Brien in the secondary position.

After new members of the Washington C.H. City Council James F. Ward and John F. Morris took the oath of office, a new chairman and vice chairman were elected. O'Brien assumed the chairmanship held by Ralph L. Cook during the past year.

Mrs. McCullough, elected to Council two years ago, will serve as vice chairman for the coming year. Of those councilmen who have not held an office on Council, she has the greatest seniority.

O'Brien, 67, is a retired track supervisor for the Newark Division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co. who has served four years on City Council. He was re-elected in November to serve a second term. He had been serving as City Council's vice chairman.

Cook is Council's senior member, having served 14 years on the city's legislative body. He has served as chairman several times, and it was Cook who entered the names of both O'Brien and Mrs. McCullough in the nominations for their respective offices.

Before leaving the chair, Cook addressed City Council briefly.

He summarized the state of continuing crises during 1975 with a simple "We got through another year." He noted that one of City Council's least popular actions, the imposition of a city income tax, had brought heavy criticism, but concluded by saying that it is obvious that "we would never have made it without it."

The city carried a balance of less than $50,000 into 1976 after having obtained nearly $200,000 revenue from the tax.

Members of Council, including Eddie Fisher Mrs. McCullough and O'Brien, thanked Cook for his efforts during the year. They said they felt he did an outstanding job, considering the wealth of problems which arose, not the least of which was the "resignation" of former city manager Dan Wolford.

Cook served as acting city manager for several weeks while a successor to Wolford was being sought. "How you managed to serve as city manager and operate your business, I don't know," said Fisher. It was a bad year for Council, and it required a lot of time on Cook's part," Fisher added.

Cook noted that the city's financial picture is approximately the same this year as it was at the beginning of 1975. He added, however, that he felt the difficulties could be resolved, and that the bigger the problems, the greater the satisfaction of overcoming them. There is a "bunch of fighters here," he concluded.

In his first official action, O'Brien named councilmen to the city's four standing committees.

Cook and Morris were named to the personnel committee, Fisher and Mrs. McCullough to the finance committee, Ward and Morris to the safety committee, and Wilson and Mrs. McCullough to the street and sewer committee.

$634 million OK'd for TV net

Broadcast bill signed by Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has signed a bill authorizing $634 million over five years for the Public Broadcasting Corp. and vetoed a bill designed to insure that economic considerations are taken into account in deliberations of the National Security Council.

Actions on 15 pending bills, taken on New Year's Eve, were announced Thursday at the White House.

The vetoed bill would have given the secretary of the Treasury membership on the National Security Council. Ford said that was unnecessary and undesirable because there were adequate arrangements for getting advice from the Treasury secretary.

It was Ford's 43rd veto.

Public Broadcasting had sought "financial security" since the corporation was established in 1968, claiming that funding plans of two years or less hampered planning and detracted from quality programming.

Proponents of the five-year authorization also have said it would tend to blunt potential government interference in such areas as public affairs programs by making annual funding pleas to Congress unnecessary.

Among the bills signed by Ford was a measure to increase the monthly premium for Medicare coverage from $6.70 to $7.20, effective July 1. The change will affect more than 20 million Medicare recipients enrolled in the voluntary coverage that pays doctors' bills.

Also signed was the $6.4-billion authorization for the new Energy Research and Development Administration and a measure to give emergency relief to small business firms caught in the economic squeeze of rising costs and fixed-price federal contract commitments.

Ford also issued a proclamation ending U.S. restrictions on imports of Canadian meat. The limitations had been in effect since Nov. 16, 1974, in retaliation for import limits set by Canada.

Ford said they were removed because "Canada has now lifted those unjustifiable restrictions on meat imports from the United States."

The President spent New Year's Day working on his fiscal 1977 budget and watching his alma mater, Michigan, on television playing in the Orange Bowl football game.

Michigan's 14-6 loss to Oklahoma cost Ford $2. He had made a bet with Sen. Dewey F. Bartlett, R-Okla., on the game.

The President also exchanged New Year's greetings by telephone with friends and members of his Cabinet.

Candidates receive government money

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government checks totaling $1.88 million are going out to 11 presidential candidates, the first ever to get direct taxpayer subsidies for their campaigns.

In today's disbursements, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., is getting the most, $492,030. President Ford is getting $374,422 and Democrat Terry Sanford $214,050.

Initial checks of $100,000 each are going to Republican Ronald Reagan and Democrats Birch Bayh, Jimmy Carter, Fred Harris, Henry M. Jackson, Morris Udall, George Wallace and Sargent Shriver. These candidates are claiming an additional $4.3 million, but auditors from the Federal Election Commission are still reviewing the claims.

Campaign emissaries planned to pick up the checks today at the Treasury Department.

The money is being paid under a law providing for partial public financing of presidential campaigns. Under the law, the government matches small, private donations raised by candidates. The funds come from persons who voluntarily designate on their federal income tax return that $1 of their taxes may be used for the purpose.

The only major presidential candidate who has yet to qualify for federal subsidies is Democrat Milton J. Shapp, governor of Pennsylvania.

To qualify for federal funds, a candidate must first raise at least $100,000 in donations of $250 or less, including at least $5,000 in each of 20 states.

The government then will match up to $250 of every donation the candidate can prove he received.

Plans for the federal money differed from campaign to campaign. The Udall camp earmarked it for delegate-hunting in Iowa, campaigning in primaries in New Hampshire and Massachusetts and for reviving Udall's dormant direct-mail appeals for private donations, which in turn could qualify Udall for even more federal matching money.

Sanford's campaign, which has been running in the red, planned to use the money to pay bills. "Its going to bring us out of the hole," said a spokeswoman. Any leftover cash will go to campaigning in New Hampshire and North Carolina, Sanford's do-or-die contest.

Bentsen's money was slated for primary campaigning in Mississippi, Oklahoma and South Carolina. Reagan's money will be spent "just like any other money we have raised," said Loren Smith, chief lawyer for the Reagan campaign.

Winter storm dumps snow across areas of mid-U.S.

By The Associated Press
A winter storm has dumped more heavy snow on the Upper Midwest.

A strong low pressure center spread snow from the Dakotas and northern Nebraska to western Michigan overnight.

The storm was drifting to the northeast, and snow had ceased or diminished to flurries over the northwestern plains. But strong winds gusting to over 40 miles per hour still were creating considerable blowing and drifting snow.

The greatest snow depth from the storm was measured at Chadron, Neb. with 20 inches.

Warnings for additional heavy amounts of snow and strong winds were in effect through today from the Dakotas into northern Michigan.

The storm also brought freezing rain and drizzle to parts of northern and eastern Iowa, southern Wisconsin, northern Illinois and northwest Indiana.

There were showers over the southern portions of Illinois and Indiana. A few thundershowers extended into Arkansas and extreme eastern Texas.

It was cloudy over the southern plains and extreme southern Rockies with snow scattered over southern New Mexico and extreme western Texas.

Clouds also extended from the midwest storm into the Ohio valley and central Appalachians. Mostly clear weather prevailed along the northern Atlantic coast, in the central and eastern Gulf states and across most of the West.

Temperatures below ten degrees were recorded over much of the Rockies, plateau and northwestern plains and also in the northern portions of New York and New England.

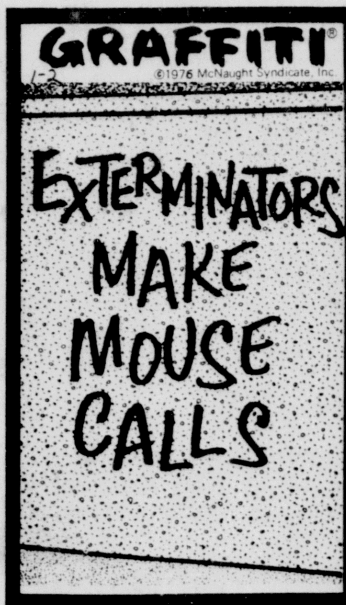

Temperatures overnight ranged from 71 at Ellington Air Force Base, Tex. to 11 below zero at Laramie and Evanston, Wyo.

Tragedies spoil New Year holiday

By The Associated Press

America ushered in the New Year with parades, Bicentennial events and the usual football games. But fires in the United States and an airline crash and a cafe fire overseas lent a touch of tragedy to the new year.

And others had to cope with a storm that dumped 19 inches of snow on parts of Wyoming and Nebraska.

As millions of Americans sat home Thursday to watch 11 hours of televised football, nearly 1.4 million spectators lined the streets of Pasadena, Calif., for the 87th annual Tournament of Roses parade. Police said it was the largest crowd in the pageant's history.

In Philadelphia, early risers and those who stayed up all night made a pilgrimage to the new home of the Liberty Bell on the first day of the nation's Bicentennial.

The famed bell was removed from Independence Hall early Thursday and placed in a newly built pavilion designed to accommodate the millions of visitors expected in 1976.

In Washington, President and Mrs.

Ford welcomed the new year in quiet fashion. Ford caught up on some paper work in his Oval Office, signed some bills, then spent part of the day Thursday like millions of others — watching football.

Southern California had some of the oddest weather. Snow fell Thursday at San Diego for the first time since Dec. 13, 1967, but it melted almost as soon as it landed.

A morning earthquake centered 20 miles east of Los Angeles was reported by the California Institute of Technology. There were no reports of injuries or property damage.

Pope Paul VI opened the year appealing for lasting peace.

"Nothing can be for man's well-being unless people live in harmony; respect each others' rights and engage in friendly discussion and constructive talks," the 78-year-old pontiff told a gathering in St. Peter's Square Thursday.

For some, the first day of 1976 will be remembered as a day of tragedy.

Fires swept through homes from

New England to the West Coast on New Year's Eve and into Thursday, killing more than 30 persons. Many of the victims were children, and some of them perished while their parents were away at celebrations.

A party at a crowded, two-room cafe in La Louviere, Belgium, ended with 16 dead and 33 injured when a flash fire stampeded revelers, and a Lebanese jetliner crashed into a Saudi desert in Lebanon Thursday, killing all 82 persons aboard.

Kacy Coody, 2, was killed in a Maryville, La., cemetery when the top portion of an old tombstone fell, crushing his head and chest. The boy's parents were taking him for a New Year's visit to the grave of his great-grandmother.

In some places, the New Year remained as violent as the old.

In Portugal, national guardsmen fired into a crowd at Oporto, killing three civilians. In Northern Ireland, terrorist bombs in Catholic and Protestant pubs killed three drinkers and injured others.

In Wilmington

Six firms damaged in downtown blaze

WILMINGTON — A fire in the Wilmington downtown business district which was discovered at 3:40 p.m. New Year's Day resulted in heavy damage to six firms including an office supply store owned by a Washington C.H. man.

Watson's Office Supply store, 36 N. South St., suffered a loss estimated at $25,000 to the contents. The building which is owned by a California resident who is formerly of Wilmington suffered damage estimated at $30,000.

Earl Watson, owner of the office supply store, resides at 263 Carolyn Road in Washington C.H. He operates the supply office in Washington C.H. as well as the Wilmington shop.

In addition to Watson's, five other firms suffered sever damage in the blaze which occupied Wilmington firemen for more than seven hours. They are Dr. Edward Beiter, optometrist, Drill Insurance co., Finance Systems of Wilmington, Roger Johnson Real Estate, and attorney Walter Schutt. Dr. Beiter and the office supply store are located on the street level. The others are upstairs offices.

Firemen theorize that the blaze began in a storage room on the second floor and a state investigator has been summoned to continue the investigation.

Two firemen were treated for minor injuries resulting from the blaze, and smoke, heat and water damage were extensive.

Two men hospitalized after tavern shooting

WILMINGTON — Two men were hospitalized and another treated and released for injuries received following a shooting incident at a Wilmington tavern Thursday afternoon.

Lee Nevels, 26, of Wilmington, and Mike Hudson, 26, of Hillsboro, are both listed in fair condition at Clinton Memorial Hospital after suffering gunshot wounds in an altercation at Hammies Snack Shop in Wilmington.

The shooting apparently stemmed from an argument at the tavern Wednesday night between Nevels, who is employed at the tavern, and 49-year-old Charles Zimmerman Sr. of Hillsboro.

On Thursday afternoon, Zimmerman allegedly returned to the tavern and pulled a .38 caliber pistol while threatening Nevels. Wilmington police said two men, Charles Zimmerman Jr. and Hudson both from Hillsboro, wrestled the elder Zimmerman to the floor and took the gun.

Then, Nevel reportedly went behind the bar, pulled a .38 caliber pistol and allegedly began firing. Charles Zimmerman Jr., who had possession of the elder Zimmerman's pistol, allegedly returned the fire.

Nevels was hit in the neck and back, Hudson received stomach and arm wounds and the elder Zimmerman suffered a minor scalp laceration from a bullet.

Charles Zimmerman Jr. is being held in the Wilmington city jail for investigation of felonious assault, but no charges have been officially filed against any of the men.

City Council

the upswing" for the city, and that he hoped that Council could find the cooperation necessary for progress.

Ward, who manages the French Hardware store on W. Court Street, echoed similar sentiments. He added that he was not on Council to represent any group, but only himself. Both he and Morris stated that they were prepared to pursue their own convictions, even if their positions were unpopular at the time.

THREE PERSONS were appointed to serve on the Carnegie Public Library board of trustees. They were Helen Hutson, 230 N. Hinde St., Doris Bitzer, 6148 CCC Highway-E, and Wilson Webb, 1614 Ohio 41-N. The library board appointments are political, and all three persons names were Democrats selected from four names submitted by the Fayette County Democratic Executive Committee.

At present there are only two members on the board of trustees, both Republicans. The addition of the new appointees will bring the number to five, and another Republican is to be named shortly.

EMERGENCY ORDINANCES were discussed, and the city solicitor noted an important difference between a "suspension of three-readings" and an "emergency." Ohio law states that all ordinances be read at three successive Council meetings and take effect 30 days after final passage.

Either of these requirements may be waived by an appropriate vote of Council, Smith said. In order to suspend the three-readings requirement, a three-fourths vote of Council is necessary. Here that means a vote of at least 6-1. An "emergency" ordinance simply means the legislation becomes effective immediately after passage, rather than 30 days later. Only a two-thirds majority is required to make an ordinance an emergency—a vote of 5-2.

Council member Billie Wilson again stated that he would refrain from passing any measure with a suspension of rules (three readings) because it denies the public and Council an opportunity to consider the matter thoroughly before it is passed. He said he was also opposed to emergency legislation when no real emergency existed.

Several other members of City Council, including the new members and newly-elected chairman Joseph O'Brien, concurred with his sentiments. It was noted that without private meetings which were outlawed by the "sunshine law," it was vital that more discussion of Council action be held during public meetings.

Venezuela facing oil industry woes

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Venezuela's takeover of its giant oil industry, the world's fifth largest, presents the wealthy developing nation with a number of immediate and long range problems.

Many of the nation's 12 million citizens, who overwhelmingly supported oil nationalization, believe the state can run the industry just as well as the foreign companies who ran it for six decades.

Others are not so sure, pointing to potential risks involving administration, technology, marketing and politics.

On New Year's Day, the state took over concessions and property of more than 30 private, mostly U.S.-owned companies under terms of a nationalization law approved by congress and signed by President Carlos Andres Perez.

The takeover is the result of peaceful negotiations between the government and companies — including subsidiaries of Exxon, Royal Dutch Shell, Gulf, Mobil and Texaco — which will receive compensation totaling $1.61 billion. Payment, based on net book value of assets, is being made in government bonds, payable over five years at six per cent interest.

The industry now will be run by 14 state operating companies working largely with the same structure as their foreign predecessors, but under direction of Petroleos de Venezuela, a state holding company that will handle overall management.

Although they will no longer run the industry, the international companies will continue to participate through contracts under which they will buy most of the country's oil production and supply technical aid for a fee expected to total some $160 million a year.

"The government has, in effect, set its hostages free," said a foreign oil company official who asked that he not be identified. "From now on they will be making the investments and taking the risks, not our stockholders."

Prior to nationalization, international oilmen complained that while their companies made the investments, they had little control over the industry and had to pay some 98 per cent of income generated by it to the government in taxes and royalties.

President Perez is the first to acknowledge that independent operation of the huge industry — which earned the government $8.4 billion in 1974 and $7.5 billion last year — is a difficult undertaking.

He warned in a nationwide speech Thursday that "the nationalization of petroleum is and will be difficult ..." and "management of the industry will not be an easy task."

Observers agree that the success of state management depends fundamentally on the government's ability to keep politics out of industry administration and to preserve high standards of efficiency achieved by the private, international companies.

Tournament of Roses parade put on without big problems

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — With its largest crowd ever, the Tournament of Roses opened the nation's bicentennial year with an elegant floral parade, a football game with a surprise result and one-third less trouble than in previous years.

An estimated 1,375,000 people lined the 5½-mile Rose Parade route New Year's Day and saw 61 flower-bedecked floats glide past in crisp morning sunshine. Twenty-two bands and 272 horses also were entered in the parade, which had as its theme, "America, Let's Celebrate."

Then 106,000 people went to the Rose Bowl football game and saw UCLA upset top-ranked Ohio State, 23-10.

The crowds were generally happy and friendly, police said, despite the fact many of them had camped overnight along the parade route in near-freezing temperatures. Others stayed in motor homes.

Police spokesman John McAlister said 109 persons were arrested on drunk charges before the parade, compared with more than 300 last year.

"Everyone was in a good mood. They yelled 'Happy New Year' at our officers and they yelled it back," he said.

Flower petals or other greenery covered every exterior surface of the floats. Each petal was glued in place by the hundreds of volunteers who worked on the floats.

Jet crashes; 2 injured

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — A DC10 jetliner, carrying 364 Turkish pilgrims from Mecca and 13 crew members, landed 20 feet short of the runway at Istanbul airport today. Two persons were reported injured, including the American flight engineer.

The left wing of the aircraft caught fire on impact, airport officials said. The fire was extinguished quickly but the plane suffered severe damage. The plane was lent to Saudi Arabian Airlines by Overseas National Airways.

Market research company discloses different jobless rates

NEW YORK (AP) — For more than 20 years until early this year, said Albert Sindlinger, his market research company's independent survey of employment matched government figures to within one per cent.

Since April, Sindlinger & Co., which interviews 1,100 households a week by telephone, has found 1.5 million more jobless, using the official definition, than is currently being reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Because of this, Sindlinger has become an outspoken critic of the government's job figures, which in November showed 8.3 per cent of a 92,979,000-person labor force unemployed.

"The jobless rate should be much higher," he said. Using the government's own definition, that the person must be actively seeking work, it should have been over 9.2 per cent in November, he said.

By his own definition, "anyone who tells us they are out of work," the November jobless rate was 10.6 per cent.

"I'm baffled," he said, "in view of the fact that for two decades we were in almost complete agreement with the government figures. We've changed our definitions. We haven't changed our questions, ever."

Adding to the mystery, says Sindlinger, is that his survey still is within one-half of one per cent agreement with the larger government figure, that for the total labor force. In November it was within one-tenth of one per cent agreement.

"Why should we go so far off on the smaller figure after two decades of almost total agreement?" Sindlinger asked pointedly.

He has examined and re-examined

his figures, which are used by many scores of businessmen, government officials, economists and stock brokers. He insists the government owes the public an explanation.

Prof. Charles Killingsworth is another critic with solid credentials, earned mainly in academia and government service.

A university professor of economics and labor and industrial relations at Michigan State University, Killingsworth is also chairman of the National Manpower Policy Task Force, a group of mainly university people, funded in part by the Labor Department. During the Korean War he was chairman of the Wage Stabilization Board.

As a measure of economic performance, he says, the jobless figures are understated and misleading.

In 1965, he reports, the Census Bureau and the Bureau of Labor Statistics began counting as employed those people in public works and college workstudy programs, most of whom were earlier considered jobless or not members of the labor force.

"Apply the same rationale retroactively and it would reduce the unemployment count during the late 1930s by one-third," he said.

"When they started this new definition in 1965 they never publicly reported it," he said. "I stumbled across it. The majority of so-called experts are unaware."

What impact has it had? Killingsworth explains: A low figure in the Public Service Employment Program was reached in August 1974 at 33,000 people. A new program was begun and by July 1975 the number involved leaped to 315,000.

"All these people were counted as employed," he said. "When reports tell us we've had a growth in employment a substantial part is due to the Public Service Employment Program," he explained.

The College Work-Study Program also helped lower the jobless rate. The program, said Killingsworth, had been "jogging along" at 500,000 worker-students. One hour of work in a survey week and they were considered employed, he said.

Family of 6 dies in blaze

GREENWOOD, Ind. (AP) — Officials report that autopsies on six members of a Greenwood killed in a house fire died of smoke inhalation and carbon monoxide poisoning.

They said Charles and Carol Roberson and their four children seemed to be trying to flee the flaming home when they were overcome.

The only survivor, Sarah White, 18, was reported in serious condition today in a hospital. She suffered severe burns.

Roberson, 45, a service station manager, was found dead in the living room of the family's home in Greenwood. His wife, Carol, 41, was discovered in the bedroom.

Found in a hallway were the children Mike, 7; Dale, 6; Gary, 5; and Sissy, 4.

Free tickets to the theater and sports events are called "Annie Oakleys" because they were punched with holes, like the cards the famed Ohio marksman Annie Oakley hit in her shooting.

A move toward metrics

Little note has been taken of one of the potentially more significant bills signed by President Ford on the plane en route to a Christmas skiing vacation. It is only natural that far more attention was focused on other bills, especially that extending the income tax cut for six months, yet the ultimate impact of the measure we have in mind will continue to be felt long after this tax adjustment and many another have receded into history.

Not to prolong the suspense, the legislation referred to deals with the nation's forthcoming shift to the metric system of weights and measures. The bill establishes a national policy for planning and coordinating this historic changeover.

For a variety of reasons, the United States is behind most of the world in adopting the metric system. This places our country at a disadvantage which would become progressively greater if no change were made. For the metric system's logic and simplicity make it far preferable to the present array of measurements based on inches and feet, pints and quarters, and so forth.

The conversion foreshadowed in the bill just signed by the President would be made under the guidance of a United States metric board. There will be no compulsion; the changeover is to be voluntary. The pressures for general compliance will mount, however, as metrics are more and more widely adopted. In time the new system should be universally in effect.

There will be some difficulties in the interim period. Substantial costs will be involved. But the benefits of this conversion to a system already in use by the great bulk of the world's peoples will, in the end, far outweigh the effects of any transitional problems.

WASHINGTON CALLING...By Marquis Childs

The right selection

WASHINGTON — With the retirement of William O. Douglas and the creation of a vacancy on the Supreme Court, President Ford was deluged with advice on whom to appoint. Choosing John Paul Stevens, a Circuit Court of Appeals judge from Chicago, he seems to me to have followed the wisest possible course.

That is to pick men, or women, with judicial experience. Moving onto the high bench, they have a definite advantage in that they are familiar at first hand with the judicial process.

This is a distinct favor to the Court hard-pressed with a crowded docket.

It was the policy followed by Dwight Eisenhower in his eight years in the presidency and, on the whole, with happy results. One of his appointees, Potter Stewart, is an outstanding judge with a promise of becoming a new focus of a Court that has been curiously embivalent.

Ford's success is in marked contrast to the debacle Richard Nixon suffered when two of his nominees were rejected by the Senate G. Harrold Carswell brought humiliation on the Nixon administration. Characteristically the president reacted with anger and a resolve to punish the Senate for, as he charged, refusing to put a Southerner on the Supreme Court.

Carswell did not lack judicial experience. But he would have brought to the bench, or so it was charged in the confirmation hearings, a prepackaged set of prejudices. This was the Nixon strict constructionist view reflecting a determination to alter the outlook of the Court.

Ford was doing his duty and he did it well by the Court. Belittling his excursion to China with two other Asian stops was an easy exercise in ridicule. Again Ford was doing his duty. Backing out of the China visit would have weakened the link with Peking and thrown doubt on the tri-lateral balance with Moscow which is the aim of American policy.

In a time of troubles as grave as the present, the man in the White House, and he happens to be for the first time in history a nonelected President, is blamed for all that goes wrong. It is smaller wonder, therefore, that Ford has been overtaken in the polls by Ronald Reagan.

Reagan, with no record in national or international affairs whatsoever, can go 'round the country making smooth promises never quite articulated in dollars and cents. He purrs like a pussycat with the skill of an actor so long in front of the cameras. Cut $90 billion out of the domestic spending budget. Yes, but how and where?

In this critical juncture in the affairs of the nation and of his party, Reagan is a spoiler. He can damage and perhaps fatally impair Ford's chances to be elected or for that matter even to be nominated.

That he could be elected President of the United States, short of the Democrats committing hari-kari at their national convention, seems to me impossible.

The theory of his ardent backers is that millions of Americans are just yearning for an opportunity to vote conservative in the person of this former actor. Nothing in any current study of across-the-board voter opinion gives this substance.

In virtually every respect the Ford view is as conservative as that of Reagan with the exception, of course, that he cannot indulge in dreams about cutting the budge $90 billion.

Even the so-called Sunday night massacre, so frequently denounced, can be put down to presidential duty. After all, the President could not have a Secretary of State with one view of detente and a Secretary of Defense with another.

It is on the side of practical politics on the national scene that Ford must be faulted. The unhappy exemplar is his choice of Howard (Bo) Callaway to be his campaign manager. From the start this has been a disaster. He succeeded in pushing Vice President Nelson Rockefeller out of the political picture with the resulting alienation of the moderates.

At the Houston meeting of Southern Republicans, Callaway seems to have outdone himself. With the 40 to 32 Gallup poll on everyone's mind, he played directly into Reagan's hands by launching an attack on the former governor of California. Ford has chosen not to attend the conference, while Reagan was there smiling his Cheshire-cat smile.

As the year ends, Ford has some painful decisions on the oil and situs picketing bills. He is President and he cannot enjoy the Reagan luxury of cloudland generalities.

Newspaper helps family to riches

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — An Iowa couple was $2,000 richer today thanks to the detective work of an Indiana newspaper.

The case involves Mr. and Mrs. George Beutner, formerly of Indianapolis, and a cigarette company contest they entered five years ago. The Federal Trade Commission stepped in after the original judging, said it was done improperly and ordered entries reevaluated.

Mrs. Beutner turned out a winner, but she had moved to Bettendorf, Iowa, from Indianapolis. The Indianapolis Star went to work trying to find her and finally succeeded.

When Wilhelm II was crown prince of Germany, Ohio's Annie Oakley shot off the end of a cigar held between his lips. Years later, when he was at war with the U.S., she wrote to ask for another chance. She died in Greenville in 1926.

Another View

"IT'S EVEN MORE REMARKABLE WHEN YOU CONSIDER I'M NOT RUNNING."

Ohio Perspective

'They can't do that'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — How many times have you heard someone say, "I just wasn't thinking when I signed that ..." or, "They can't do that can they?"

Both refrains are common over Atty. Gen. William J. Brown's toll-free Public Action Line which began taking consumer complaints and queries from all over the state in late October.

Even for consumer experts, the answers are not always easy.

"We can't give them legal advice or an interpretation," says Marsha A. Muske, supervisor of the action line. "We can't say that's a violation."

However, the attorney general's consumer advisors can read the pertinent law to an irate caller and suggest appropriate steps if the gripe appears to have merit.

"It sounds like you might have a problem," the action line operator might tell a complainant. "We'll send you a questionnaire and you return the form to us."

And there it is again, the ubiquitous bureaucratic "form." Filling out such forms is important, Mrs. Muske contends because it provides the attorney general with the basic facts of a case and "it requires people to think through the entire problem and put it down as it happened."

Often complaints are resolved without any legal action. "Many times a businessman may be in violation of the law and not even know," Mrs. Muske said. In such cases a call from the attorney general's office sometimes resolves the complaint.

More than $19,000 has been returned to consumers as a result of cases initiated over the public action line, she said.

What kind of cases? Mrs. Muske provided a couple of examples from the 60 to 70 daily calls. One is typical, the other unusual.

"A college student took her car into a service station for a repair. She knew she had a carburetor problem. Her dad told her it needed adjusting. They went ahead and put in a new carburetor and didn't advise her in advance of it. When she went to pick up the car, they told her 'you can't have your car without paying.'"

The young woman went home to get the money. She also called the action line and the consumer advisor phoned the service station and the parent oil company. As a result, Mrs. Muske said the student got a refund and kept the new carburetor.

Then there was the little old lady: "An elderly widow sent in $16 for a complete horoscope she saw in a newspaper advertisement. After a year she hadn't received it and she had called him (the alleged astrologer) and written him several letters. So we called the man and he returned her $16."

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Parents punish girl for sins of sis

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl. You see, my sister got pregnant when she was 16, and she had an abortion. Now, all I hear from parents is, "We are not going to take off you what we took off your sister!"

Abby, I am not my sister. I would like to be able to have company over to the house, but my parents won't allow it. If a boy happens to come over, they tell me if I don't send him away, they will.

I don't want to have to sneak and have the boys come to my girl friend's house to see me, but that is the only way I can ever see a guy. I have never given my parents a reason to distrust me, but they do.

Isn't there some way I can convince them that I won't do like my sister did?

OVERPROTECTED

DEAR OVER: Your problem is one that many girls have, and it is grossly unfair. Your parents should not punish you for what your sister did.

Do not sneak. If you do and are caught, they will have good reason to deny you company.

DEAR ABBY: I am 25 and my ex-husband is 33. We have been divorced for 14 months, but we're still living together. I just never got up the nerve to kick him out because he's kind of helpless.

He doesn't want me to have any friends. In fact, he yells if I leave the house. I am an excellent cook and housekeeper, and serve him three hot meals a day. I do all the yard work, and even the painting and house repairs. All he wants to do after work is sit in front of the TV and drink beer.

We were married for four years and never had any kids. (He can't stand them.)

He hardly ever makes love to me, and when he does he satisfies only himself. If I complain, he gets mad.

He never compliments me and never wants to take me out. But he feels with his friends whenever he feels like it.

Don't tell me to leave him, Abby. I love him.

RUSSELLVILLE, ARK.

DEAR RUSS: If you want to live together, why did you divorce him?

As I see it, you are merely living with a man who treats you as a cook and housekeeper. Obviously, you aren't happy, or you wouldn't have written to me. Insist that he either get some counseling and shape up, or ship out. What's to "love" in a man like him?

DEAR ABBY: My sister and I are moving into an apartment soon. Mom and Dad are giving us a lot of furniture they won't be needing, so we're all set there, but we don't have any kitchen equipment.

We can't afford to buy things like a toaster, coffee pot, electric iron, pots, pans and utensils. Also, there are potholders and other kitchen gadgets we'll need but can't lay out the money to buy.

My sis and I thought of throwing our own, "Got a New Apartment but Don't Have Any Kitchen Equipment" party.

My Mom says it would be too much like a bridal shower and it wouldn't be right.

Abby, we're going to have enough trouble paying our rent and grocery bill without the added expense of all the kitchen stuff we need. What do you think of our party idea?

NEEDING THINGS

DEAR NEEDING: Skip the party. But do visit your nearest Goodwill or Salvation Army store and see what is available in secondhand but good-as-new appliances.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, Jan. 2, the second day of 1976. There are 364 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1942, in the early days of the Pacific War, the Japanese captured the Philippine capital of Manila.

On this date — In 1766, there was rioting in Savannah, Ga. against the British Stamp Act. In 1788, Georgia became the fourth state to ratify the U.S. Constitution.

In 1900, the open door policy in China was announced by U.S. Secretary of State John Hay.

In 1929, the United States and Canada agreed to preserve Niagara Falls.

In 1960, Senator John Kennedy of Massachusetts announced his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

In 1974, President Richard Nixon signed a bill requiring states to limit highway speeds to 55 miles an hour because of the energy crisis.

Ten years ago: U.S. combat troops were moving into the rich Mekong delta in South Vietnam for the first time.

Five years ago: a crowd barrier collapsed at a soccer match at Glasgow, Scotland, and 66 persons were trampled to death.

One year ago: the District of Columbia got its first elected mayor and city council in more than 100 years.

Today's birthday: opera singer Renata Tebaldi is 54 years old.

Thought for today: They who give have nothing. Hindu proverb.

Bicentennial footnote: 200 years ago today, the Continental Congress in Philadelphia directed that confirmed Tories were to be disarmed and if necessary confined.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 3

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

An excellent period for broadening your outlook, introducing new ideas and systems into your regular program. But do not switch position or tactics in a way that betokens instability.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

Helpful influences, but you will have to be alert, nonetheless. You may have to try a new tack or make changes in pre-set plans, but they would be for the better.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

If faced with a quick change or unusual suggestion, don't reject summarily. Maintain poise and consider all factors before making a decision.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

You may face some annoyance or a complex situation, but your good judgment and know-how will help you - IF you remain up to standard.

the illustrated BIBLE

God Creates the World

In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth... and (He) saw that it was good. Genesis 1:1-18

Only the words of the Bible itself can give proper scope to the miracle of creation. From the first line of Genesis, "In the beginning..." the simple tale of six days' wonders—told in less than six hundred words—is an awesome and inspiring testament. Unfolded before us, as in a giant panorama, we can almost see how, out of complete nothingness, God first produced light, then divided the light and the darkness, calling them day and night; how he created the land and the sea, then the sun and the stars in a firmament which he called heaven; then the greening of earth with myriad species of plant life and, at last, populating all with fish and fowl, beasts and cattle. And, as the Bible says, "found it good."

BLT sandwich turns into a soup

BLT SOUP — Inspired by America's popular bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwich.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Food Editor
Intrigued by a recipe for Bacon, Lettuce and Tomato Soup in a cookbook written by a California restaurateur, we devised our own version for you last spring and called it BLT Soup in good soda-fountain lingo.

We managed to get all the ingredients that go into a Bacon, Lettuce and Tomato Sandwich into our soup except the bread and mayonnaise. Now another cook has gone us one better. When we invited her to devise still another version of BLT Soup she came up with the missing ingredients. She browns small squares of bread in mayonnaise for croutons and adds them to the soup! If you want to have the fun of serving this ingenious dish, here's her recipe.

ANOTHER BLT SOUP

8 slices bacon, cut into 1/2-inch crosswise pieces
1/2 cup chopped onion
10 3/4-ounce can condensed tomato soup
11-ounce can tomato bisque soup
1 1/2 soup cans water
Dash of pepper
1 cup shredded iceberg lettuce
Croutons, see below
In a medium saucepan over moderate heat, stirring often, cook the bacon until browned. Pour off all but 2 tablespoons of the drippings. Gently cook onion in the 2 tablespoons drippings, stirring often, until wilted. Add bacon, soups, water and pepper; stirring often, bring slowly to a boil. Add lettuce and simmer a few minutes. Serve with Croutons. Makes about 1 1/4 quarts.

Croutons: In a small skillet over low heat, stirring constantly, heat 2 tablespoons of mayonnaise. Add 1 1/2 cups small bread cubes and stir until browned.

TACCHINO TONNATO (Tunited Turkey) is an economical version of the traditional Italian specialty, Vitello Tonnato, made with veal. Tabasco liquid red pepper enhances the creamy tuna sauce spooned over the cooled, sliced turkey breast. The pewter spoon in the foreground of the photo is a replica of a truly unique item known as the Copeland Spoon. Reproduced from oldest known dated piece of American pewter, the spoon is an example of seventeenth-century styling from the Jamestown, Virginia area. It has been reproduced by the Stieff Company of Baltimore as part of its Bicentennial Collection of historical pieces.)

Tacchino Tonnato: You don't sing it, you eat it!

In this recipe for Tacchino Tonnato (Tunited Turkey), a 5-pound turkey breast will serve six to eight persons. The turkey is cooked until tender in chicken broth, while wine and vegetables, sparked with Tabasco liquid red pepper seasoning. Part of this stock is used to further enhance the Tomato Sauce. This creamy sauce is easily made to smooth perfection in the blender. Should there be any left, it's very good poured over sliced tomatoes and salad greens. You see, there's no waste to this fine dish!

Crispy Italian bread will round out this

Young at heart

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

WHAT'S the secret of staying young even though you're well past retirement age? According to several remarkable women we interviewed recently, the secret lies in keeping busy, active, and with it. Talk to these women and one thing is immediately apparent: Age cannot wither, nor custom stale, youthful spirits.

Past 70, composer Kay Swift has just one complaint about her age: "People keep asking me about the good old days," she complained, "I can't imagine why. The days I'm living right now are as good as I could possibly ask for."

Way back when, Miss Swift, the toast of Broadway, wrote countless hit songs, including such standards as "Fine and Dandy," "Can This Be Love?" and "Can't We Be Friends," which was sung to fame by Libby Holman. She composed hit Broadway musicals and the scores for movies, and knew all the greats of the greatest Broadway era. During her Gershwin years, she moved in the glittering world of the brothers, Ira and George, adapting Gershwin's music for a film.

Still Going Strong

Now that she's over 70? Miss Swift is still doing what she does best — composing, orchestrating, recording, producing and promoting. Her latest achievement is a record album, released under the Mark 56 label, "Fine and Dandy — the Music of Kay Swift." It includes her hit songs of the past, a cycle of children's songs written for her grandchildren "because I didn't know how to knit for them," and several new compositions.

A woman who hates to relax because "it's more fun doing things," she was slowed down recently by a broken heel, the result of making a "grand entrance."

"I sailed into a party," she recalled, "said, 'Oh, what a magnificent room,' took a step forward and fell down two steps onto the living room floor."

Known for her Swift gait — she runs everywhere — she ruefully admits that, at least until the cast is removed, "I move like the great continental glacier."

But it hasn't slowed down her thinking, composing or plans. She's hoping to revive the hit show with its still popular title song, "Fine and Dandy," which she wrote in 1930.

At 82, a New Life Style

Another woman who has kept her place in the main stream of life is Hazel Dell Brown, who for 32 years was director of the interior design bureau of the Armstrong Cork Co. Instead of taking it easy, Mrs. Brown, now 82, recently embarked on a new project, designing and building what she calls "my dream house" in Lancaster, Pa.

Most people her age would feel uprooted moving into a new house. Not Mrs. Brown who's been percolating the plan for better than 10 years. Discarding the idea at one point, she threw away the plans. When she decided to carry on, she was able to redraw them inch by inch from memory.

Her new home offered many challenges. Built on a 20-foot lot, it's only 11 feet wide by 44 deep. A two-story house, with 1,100 square feet of space, she terms it an exercise in the efficient use of space. Decorating pro that she is, Mrs. Brown used built-ins to expand space and says she had all the furniture arranged in her head before she moved in.

Where age is concerned, she thinks her late years are her best.

"My best years were after 50," she said. "There's no need to grab at life when you're young because there can be much richness in life at any age. It's heartening to realize you can be active and adequate into your 80s."

Nomadic Life

Peggy Bird, who is over 70, is another woman who finds that meeting new challenges keeps her young. Married to Junius B. Bird, curator emeritus in the Department of Anthropology at the American Museum of Natural History, she accompanies her archeologist husband on field trips, serving as his assistant, helping to clean and sort ancient tools found at excavation sites and then, back at the Museum, assisting him in numbering and cataloging finds.

Mother of three sons and grandmother of five, she is as at home in a tent in some remote spot as she is in a hotel. Her current plans include joining her husband on a return trip to Panama to search the northwestern part of the country for the remains of people who migrated from North America.

An 'Old' Business

Countless other people past retirement age haven't gone as far afield as the Birds to keep active, busy and young. In Norwalk, Conn., for example, 16 are employed by Fertl, a small firm that markets starter material for garden plants. Its president, Hoyt Catlin is, at 85, still younger than his oldest worker, who is 91. With an average age of 68, the rest of Fertl's employees are all in their 60s, 70s and 80s. The company, founded by Catlin when he was 65, the usual retirement age, has been successful, he feels, because there's less absenteeism, less turnover and a great deal more loyalty and dedication.

The Fertl story goes hand in hand with the growing feeling that the expertise and experience of older people shouldn't be lost through retirement.

Firebombing trial enters 13th week

NEW HAVEN (AP) — The trial into the firebombing of the Sponge Rubber Products Co. enters its 13th week Monday, when the last of nine defendants will present his case.

An explosion and fire destroyed the Shelton firm last March 1. Nine men including the company's president are on trial in U.S. District Court on charges they conspired to blow up the factory.

Ohio Decorative's president, Charles D. Moeller of Cridersville, is a defendant in the trial.

A look-alike for a defendant in the federal arson case toured the factory nearly three weeks before it was blown up, an engineer for Sponge Rubber Products Co. has testified.

Sponge Rubber's chief engineer, Stephen Kordiak, said Wednesday that a representative of a New York City finance company was at the plant 18 days before it was firebombed. The finance company had backed purchase of the Shelton plant by Ohio Decorative Products Inc. of Spencerville, Ohio, he said.

Kordiak, testifying for defendant Anthony A. Just of Greensburg, Pa., said the man visiting the plant fit the general description of Just.

Just's attorney asked Kordiak if he and the look-alike had discussed explosives and the use of them, to which Kordiak answered, "yes."

Prosecutor Peter C. Dorsey objected and after lengthy private discussions at the bench, Judge Jon O. Newman barred further testimony on the topic.

Just concluded his defense Wednesday.

Also testifying Wednesday was Marie Fobes, girl friend and secretary of defendant Dennis C. Tiche of Boyers, Pa.

Community Ed report

By HANK SHAFFER
Program Director

This week's Community Education Report is going to be centered around the new set of classes that we will offer in a couple of weeks. In the past we have offered the winter set of classes starting in the middle of January. Due to the problem of fuel oil and heating the Middle School, we have held off in announcing when the classes will be held. We are still going to set our sights on having the classes start in the middle of January, but until we have a better idea of what the weather is going to be like, we will hold off until a later date.

We have had a couple of calls during the past week from people that are interested in taking one or more of our classes. They also gave us some ideas as to new classes that they would like to see us offer. Some of the classes that we have had in the past are cake decorating, crochet, bridge lessons, knitting, quilting, typing, bookkeeping, shorthand, macrame, sewing, oil painting and many more along these lines. They include educational, recreational, and cultural enrichment activities and classes. If you have any desire to take a course through our program, or have an idea for a course that perhaps we have not yet offered, please give us a call at 335-6621. We will be glad to talk with you about it and give you any information that we can about the classes and our program.

During the past two weeks over the holiday season, we have offered two programs with the youngsters in mind. They were the 5th and 6th grade basketball activity and the open gym for all youngsters. Both of the programs went over very well with those that participated. They seemed to enjoy themselves and it gave them the opportunity to use the gym during the vacation period.

The basketball leagues that we help to sponsor are still playing at the Middle School Gym. The Industrial League plays on Monday and Wednesday evenings, while the Church League plays on Tuesdays and Thursdays. If you would like to come out and see some good local basketball, please feel free to come in and watch. There is no admission price to watch either league.

Next week we will give you more information on the coming classes. In the meantime, we need to hear from you as to what offerings you would like to participate in. We can only offer what you want if you let us know your wishes.

The Anti-Saloon League was formed at Oberlin, Ohio, in 1893.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — CBS News offers tonight a one-hour TV study of the 1968 assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., whether James Earl Ray did it, and, if so, whether he acted alone or as part of a conspiracy.
Ray pleaded guilty in a Tennessee court in 1969 to King's slaying in Memphis, but renounced that plea, to no avail. He later failed in a federal court bid to withdraw his plea and go on trial, but a new effort by him now is pending before a federal appeals court.
In tonight's show, correspondent Dan Rather says CBS News, in its probe into the slaying of King, the black civil rights leader and Nobel Peace Prize winner, tried to interview Ray in prison.
"But due to the repeated advice of his lawyers, he wouldn't talk for this broadcast," he adds. "So the best witness stands mute."

Like CBS' two-part November study of President John F. Kennedy's assassination, tonight's show revisits the scene of the slaying, restudies the evidence and interviews various persons, ranging from one of Ray's current lawyers to a Memphis landlady who rented Ray a room.
In the Kennedy shows, CBS cautiously concluded that while "it may never be established" whether Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone, "the evidence indicates" that Oswald "probably did" shoot Kennedy.
There's none of that in tonight's show. CBS fails to turn up any evidence of a conspiracy to kill King and doesn't offer any opinion, even a cautiously-worded one, on whom it thinks may have killed him.
It simply says, among other things, that Tennessee's case against Ray as a lone assassin "was not as air-tight as we had been told."

Mamie said improving

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mamie Eisenhower is showing improvement in her battle against the viral condition which hospitalized her at Walter Reed Army Medical Center.
A bulletin issued Thursday by the hospital also said the former first lady "is alert and resting comfortably."
Results of medical tests "indicate that Mrs. Eisenhower had apparently contracted a viral infection which is now responding to treatment," a hospital spokesman said.
The 79-year-old widow of President

Dwight D. Eisenhower was taken ill at her farm home near Gettysburg, Pa., and rushed to the hospital by ambulance on Wednesday.
Mrs. Eisenhower in the past has suffered from a rheumatic heart and arthritis.
She was hospitalized last March at the Army Medical Center at Ft. Gordon, Ga., and then at Walter Reed for treatment of diverticulosis, an inflammation of the intestine that doctors said had caused internal bleeding.

Indiana license branches open

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — While other state workers had today off as part of the New Year's weekend, employees of the 187 license branches were on the job to meet an expected rush for Indiana's Bicentennial year plates.
Commissioner Ralph Van Natta of the motor vehicles bureau said, "I'm excited about this year's plate. It is colorful, attractive, boosts Indiana and is Bicentennial in design."

Columbus police in flap over flag

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Question: What's red, white and blue and leaving holes in the shirtsleeves of Columbus policemen?

Answer: The 600 American flag patches police chief Earl Burden has ordered removed from the officers' uniforms after Feb. 1.

Burden issued the command Tuesday, but was in Pasadena for the Rose Bowl on Thursday and unavailable for comment.

Col. Ralph Drown, Burden's executive officer, explaining the removal order, said, "Apparently the flag has run its course. I didn't ever see any particular reason to be wearing them anyway."

Drown said a five-man uniform committee believed the patches "were hard to keep on uniforms and were hard to line up...and detracted from the appearance of the uniform."

Though Burden's order comes on the eve of the nation's Bicentennial, Drown said he does not believe police are ignoring the 200th anniversary of the independence of the United States.

"We've got some things to take their (flag patches) place during the Bicentennial," he said. "We've decorated the police cruisers." Red, white and blue stripes adorn the sides of the police cars.

Flags were added during the administration of former Mayor M.E. Sensenbrenner and have adorned winter and summer uniforms for more than five years.

"It makes me heartsick," Sensenbrenner said when told of the decision. "The flag should remain on the uniform. It doesn't detract from a thing."

"That red, white and blue means freedom and it is a deep honor for policemen to wear it," Sensenbrenner

said. "We need more display of the flag, not less."

The order to remove the patches has generated anger within police ranks. "It's a bad idea," an officer said, "especially during the Bicentennial. I am proud of the flag. It's because I want to defend it and what it stands for that I am an officer in the first place."

Another officer echoed that sentiment and said Burden's order should not have been made during the

Bicentennial. "If he wants them off, okay, but couldn't he have waited until this time next year?"

However, a third policeman supported Burden. "The flag was never meant to be a decoration. He (Burden) should have done it a long time ago."

Drown said the order to remove the flags could be changed only by Burden if enough police officers express dissatisfaction.

McGovern takes trip to Asia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern is on a three-week trip to Asia that will take him to Pakistan, India, Bangladesh and North Vietnam.

His press secretary said McGovern, chairman of a Senate subcommittee on Near Eastern and South Asian affairs, will meet officials of the countries for discussions on international relations and foreign aid.

He said McGovern was visiting Hanoi "mainly to consider relations with the Vietnamese government and the overall political situation in Southeast Asia."

Holiday weekend road toll rises

By The Associated Press

The New Year's holiday weekend traffic death toll across the nation continued to mount today, with winter weather affecting driving conditions over a wide area of the nation.

A total of 150 persons had been reported killed by the prenoon hours.

Reorganization set by board

The Washington C.H. Board of Education will hold its annual reorganization meeting Monday night. The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the office of the superintendent, and consideration of a final draft of the 1976 budget will top the agenda.

The first order of business will be to install Hugh M. Rea as a member of the board. Elected in November, Rea will assume the seat vacated by James R. Hanawalt, who chose not to seek reelection. Also to be installed are Walter E. (Gene) Bienz and Robert Highfield, who were re-elected to serve another term.

Bienz and Highfield, who have served as president and vice president respectively, will vacate the posts and new officers will be chosen.

The most important item on the agenda is the presentation of the 1976 budget. While the cost of everything seems to be rising at an incredible rate, the board anticipates revenue for 1976 which is $50,000 less than it received in 1975. The combination of rising costs and declining revenue has made balancing the $2.3 million budget a difficult task.

Day care center personnel receive first aid course

The 45 children involved in the Kiddie Care Day-Care Center program located in the First Baptist Church at the corner of North and East streets are now under the supervision of trained first aid personnel.

Fayette County Red Cross First Aid chairman Paul Woods completed the instruction of a three-week first aid course on Dec. 9, during which six of the 16 women working in the day-care center qualified for basic first aid certification.

Woods explained the Occupational Health and Safety Act of 1972 made such training mandatory by law, requiring 10 hours of first aid training. His students completed 21 hours, covering such areas as artificial respiration, splints and bandages, emergency injuries, transporting the injured, poisoning, choking and control of bleeding.

One and often more of the certified personnel at the day-car center will always be on duty. The center opens its doors at 6:30 a.m. and ends its day at 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. State and federal licensing stipulate a maximum of 50 children. The 45 children now participating range in age from three years through six years. Fees range from $15.50 to $20 per week and are pro-rated on the parent's income. The center was organized in May, 1972 and is presently directed by Juanita Phillips.

Employees completing the first aid course were Evelyn Rice, Dorothy Everhart, Joy Gleadall, Juanita Phillips, Martha Dresbaugh and Patty Dixon.

Fremont peak conquered

PINEDALE, Wyo. (AP)—The leader of a successful expedition up 13,730-foot Fremont Peak said Thursday the seven climbers will start their descent on Friday after spending the night in snow caves near the 13,730-foot summit.

Courtney Skinner, 39, radioed that the party conquered the peak at midafternoon on New Year's Day. The group had set out to climb another Wind River Mountains peak, Gannett, but was diverted to Fremont because of blizzard conditions on the original objective.

Skinner reported that the temperatures was 13 below zero and skies were clear when the climbing team returned to their snow caves at 13,000 feet for the night. He said the group plans to return to Pinedale on Sunday.

Fremont Peak is about 20 miles northeast of Pinedale in northwestern Wyoming.

Other climbers on the expedition are Mack Ellerby, Chris Chidsey and Ted Handwerk, all of Denver, Colo.; Bruce MacWilliams, Gladwyne, Pa.; Steven Porter, Chagrin Falls, Ohio; and Webber Hudson, Grosse Point Farms, Mich.

Ben Pitman introduced his system of shorthand while teaching painting in Cincinnati.

Cincy faces safety force job action

CINCINNATI (AP)—Today was to be a busy one for negotiators representing about 6,000 city employees and also for city officials who are trying to untangle contract deadlocks which have left workers without a contract.

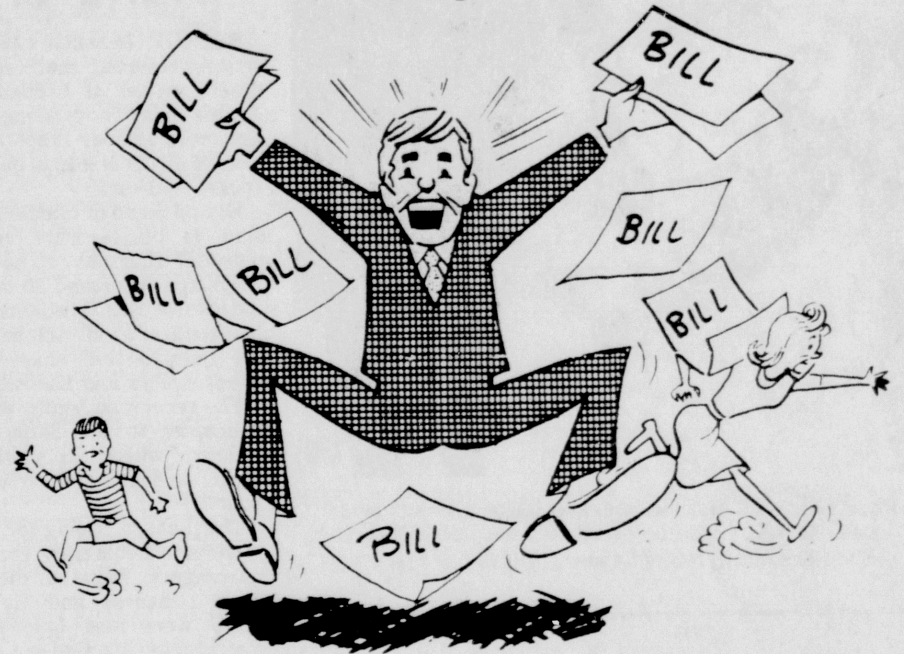

Al Van Hagen, head of the American Federation of State County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), says he planned to be in the city manager's office at exactly 7:50 a.m.

"We are told that's the best time to catch him," said Van Hagen, whose group represents about 3,800 employees.

Van Hagen said he had made "significant progress" in talks Wednesday, although there were still problems to be cleared up.

Faculty member appointed

WILMINGTON — Milton K. Farquhar has been appointed a full-time faculty member at Southern State College's north campus in Wilmington. The appointment was announced by Dr. Vivian Franz, dean of the north campus in Wilmington. Farquhar was a part-time instructor in accounting during the fall quarter at Southern State College. He will now be responsible for teaching all accounting courses and one management technology course at the north campus. A graduate of the University of Cincinnati, Farquhar holds a bachelor of business administration degree with a major in accounting. Since 1958 he has been corporate secretary-treasurer and general manager of the Farquhar Co., a Wilmington-based contracting firm. Farquhar lives at 1065 Peggy Lane, Wilmington, with his wife and five children.

Medics start slowdown

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A doctors' work slowdown over malpractice insurance rates has begun here, but the normally slow holiday period prevents an assessment of its effects until next week. Hospital spokesmen said statistics on the slowdown, which began Thursday, would not be available until Monday because there is no way to tell this week if doctors are staying out in protest of the insurance situation or simply because of the holidays.

A survey by the Hospital Council of Southern California found 14 hospitals in the San Fernando Valley had been affected even before the slowdown officially began Thursday, a spokesman for County USC Medical Center said.

Doctors' groups throughout the state are protesting proposed new malpractice insurance rates that would cost physicians at least four times what they now pay.

Phoenix Insurance Co., a subsidiary of Travelers Insurance Co. of Hartford, Conn., has asked for a 486 per cent increase, but the state insurance commissioner says he will fight any increase above 327 per cent. Phoenix carries most of the malpractice policies in the state.

The state has offered to operate a doctor-pooled insurance fund but has insisted that doctors repay it by giving 20 days a year of free care for the needy plus a commitment to treat all Medi-Cal patients. The doctors rejected that proposal Wednesday and negotiations resume today.

Medi-Cal is a state tax funded health insurance program for the poor and the retired.

It was not clear how many of the state's doctors would join the slowdown.

DP&L including more data on electric bills

DAYTON — The Dayton Power and Light Co. is now including additional information on electric bills.

Recently, the state enacted a law which required all Ohio electric utilities to indicate three things on each month's statement: (1) the total cost of fuel which is included in each customer's bill (2) the fuel charge for

82 aboard die in desert plane crash

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Rescue squads resumed their search in the desert wastes of northeastern Saudi Arabia today for missing victims of a Lebanese airliner crash that took the lives of all 82 persons aboard, an airline spokesman said.

Kamal Sinno of Middle East Airlines said 73 bodies were recovered by nightfall Thursday, 12 hours after the wreckage was found 30 miles north of the town of Thof Qaisouma. The town is just south of an oil-rich neutral zone on the Persian Gulf shared equally by Saudi Arabia and Kuwait.

The recovered bodies were taken by helicopter to the Saudi oil port of Dahrhan, where MEA officials were trying to identify each victim, Sinno added.

The plane, a Boeing 707, carried a 15-member Lebanese crew and 67 passengers. Most of the passengers were Lebanese and Egyptians, but there were also four Britons, two Frenchmen, six Greeks, a Norwegian and a Cypriot, MEA said.

Sinno said the jetliner, on a regular flight from Beirut to Dubai and Muscat, was found split into three parts. He said wreckage was scattered over a two-mile area.

"The small wreckage area negates the possibility of midair explosion. Then the wreckage would have been spread over a much larger area," he added.

However, Sinno said no cause for the crash had yet been established.

"An airline investigation team has just begun searching for clues in the wreckage.

each kilowatt hour and (3) the difference between the present and previous month's fuel charge on a per kilowatt hour basis. The new information is not used in calculating the billing for electric service, and there are no changes in rates or billing calculations. Customers will now know exactly how much of their monthly bill is for total fuel costs.

The new information is a combination of two items - the Electric Fuel Adjustment per Kilowatt Hour (KWH) and the amount of the fuel cost in the "base rate". The combination of these two items is the total fuel cost.

Previously, DP&L indicated only the "Electric Fuel Adjustment Per KWH". This will continue to be on the stub portion of the bill.

The new information appears as a notation in the upper right hand corner of the bill stub.

Customers using 800 KWH this month will have the following notation on their bills: "Bill Includes $7.82 Electric Fuel Charge at .00978 Per KWH Which Is $.00102 Per KWH Less Than Last Month."

The fuel adjustment procedure has not changed from past practice. The new information effects only the electric portion of the bill. Customers who have DP&L natural gas service will continue to have only the "Cost Adjustment Factor Per CCF" (hundred cubic feet) noted on the bill.

The new procedure does not effect the total bill in any way. The fuel cost has always been a part of the total electric bill, but this is the first time it has been itemized separately.

Review of jobless statistics being urged

NEW YORK (AP) — Julius Shiskin, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, is among those who would like a blue ribbon committee appointed to review concepts and procedures used in developing official employment statistics.

Nevertheless, Shiskin, who is responsible for gathering and reporting the figures, generally defends present concepts and techniques as sound, if sometimes imperfect. A review is needed, he feels, to satisfy critics.

Doubts about the figures have grown this year. Some users of the jobless rate feel the true level and meaning of unemployment is poorly understood, and that the figures are badly understated.

Shiskin, whose ability and integrity are highly regarded even by most critics, concedes there have been problems with the measurements, but he maintains they do the job, and that the official jobless rate — 8.3 per cent in November — is a good measure.

"It has multiple uses," he said. "It's a good cyclical indicator. It's an excellent measure of economic performance. And it is also a good indicator of economic and psychological hardship."

The procedures used by Shiskin are largely a product of the Committee to Appraise Employment and Unemployment Statistics, created in 1961 and commonly called the Gordon Committee for its chairman, Prof. Robert A. Gordon.

Shiskin praises the Gordon Committee recommendations. Still, he concedes some serious changes have developed since then, such as an increase of women in the labor force and the extension of jobless benefits, both of which might tend to change procedures and interpretations.

Gordon, an economist at the University of California-Berkeley, believes another committee should be created partly because the distribution of many millions of dollars in revenue sharing depend upon local job statistics, which at best can be trusted only "cautiously."

Alfred Teller's criticisms have been of a different nature. Teller, now a Census Bureau Employee, declines to comment from that position, but during his years at Georgetown University he attacked what he felt was subjective questioning and analysis.

Among his many criticisms was that a lot of people would rather say they weren't looking for a job than admit to a questioner that they were unable to get work. Some might say they were ill, he found, and thus eliminate themselves from the labor statistics.

Through his research and that of others he found a curious recurrence: Many of the reasons people give for not being in the labor force have a cyclical nature, developing as alibis and excuses when jobs are hard to get.

Shiskin is aware of this and other criticism and says he considers it healthy. He concedes that, "This year we had a very serious problem of seasonal adjustment." A new adjustment factor might be introduced in February, he said.

The deteriorating economic situation early this year also produced a big difference between findings of the bureau's establishment, or business employment survey, and its monthly jobless survey of households. The former had a much greater number without jobs.

As the year ends, the BLS still hasn't brought the surveys into agreement, although Shiskin says, "We're closer than before." The original difference, he said, was "adjusted" to 400,000. "Now it's less."

The measurements are, as Shiskin says, "two different universes," but generally they are in closer agreement, and some critics maintain the difference must be reconciled or else conceptual or procedural errors must be admitted.

All statistical techniques have imperfections. Dissatisfaction is common and so is the search for better methods. But Shiskin believes another committee's findings "could well come out close to those of the Gordon Committee."

Some critics aren't nearly as convinced. Sindlinger & Co., a market research organization that maintains its own figures, says flatly that the BLS understates unemployment, even within its own definition, by more than one million.

"I promised when I came into this job to seek a review," said Shiskin. "I tried to set it up in June 1973 at my confirmation. I've been working on it ever since."

The recommendation, forwarded by Labor Secretary John Dunlop, is now at the White House, he said.

Plan to publish CIA agent names

WASHINGTON (AP) — A coeditor of the magazine "Counterspy" says the publication is not responsible for the death of Richard S. Welch and plans to print the names of about 70 other CIA agents in an upcoming edition.

Coeditor Doug Porter said the CIA agents' names will be picked up from newspapers in France, Sweden and Angola. He said about 60 names are to be published next week by the newspaper Liberation in France.

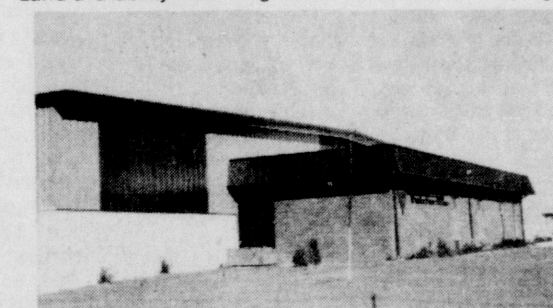

Porter said names of five CIA agents have been published by a newspaper in Sweden and the "Counterspy" staff has been told names of "half a dozen" have been published in Angola.

National college crown still undecided

Bucks, Wolves drop bowl games

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Who's No. 1 — a team which goes through the season undefeated or a once-beaten club which plays a tougher schedule?

That's the question facing the pollsters who'll pick the winner of the national college football championship, something which has apparently eluded the irascible Woody Hayes once again.

Hayes had a chance to lock up the crown which has escaped his powerful Ohio State teams since 1968. But the Buckeyes let it slip from their grasp when they were upset by UCLA 23-10 in the Rose Bowl.

So now the voters have to make their choice: should the No. 1 spot go to Arizona State, which went through the season 12-0 but played a supposedly easy schedule, or should the title go to one of the teams with 11-1 records—Oklahoma, Alabama, Ohio State—who played schedules generally regarded as more demanding?

"We think our record speaks for itself," declared Arizona State Athletic Director Fred L. Miller. "A 12-0 team is deserving of the national championship."

"The pollsters will have to decide," countered Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer, whose Sooners staked their claim to the top rung on the college football ladder with an impressive 14-6 victory over Michigan in the Orange Bowl Thursday night. "I would like to say that we are the No. 1 team."

Coach Dick Vermeil, whose UCLA Bruins dealt Ohio

State the Rose Bowl shocker, nonetheless contended that "Ohio State, over a 12-game schedule, is probably the No. 1 team."

The fiery Hayes evaded newsmen after his team's loss, so his views on the matter were not recorded. Alabama Coach Bear Bryant, another very interested party, was on a recruiting trip and could not be reached for comment.

There are 63 voters, all sports writers and sportscasters on newspapers or broadcasting outlets that are members of The Associated Press, participating in The AP poll, which was originated in 1936.

Voters are selected from various regions around the nation, based on the number of major college football teams in each section.

The last poll of the regular season listed the top seven as: Ohio State, Texas A&M, Oklahoma, Alabama, Michigan, Nebraska and Arizona State. Since then, Ohio State lost to UCLA in the Rose Bowl; Texas A&M lost twice, to Arkansas in a late regular season game and to Southern California in the Liberty Bowl; Oklahoma beat Michigan in the Orange Bowl; Alabama defeated Penn State 13-6 in the Sugar Bowl, and Arizona State edged Nebraska 17-14 in the Fiesta Bowl.

The rap against Arizona State is that of the 11 teams it beat in the regular season, not one was invited to a bowl game. And while its victory over Nebraska was impressive, it was achieved on the Sun Devils' home field in Tempe, Ariz.

By comparison, Oklahoma played five bowl-bound teams in the regular season and Ohio State met three. Like Arizona State, Alabama did not play any.

Oklahoma solidified its claim to the top spot with a superb defensive effort against Michigan, holding the potent Wolverines scoreless until midway through the final period when a fumble gave Michigan the ball on the Sooners' two-yard line.

"We gave them their touchdown," said Switzer. "A 14-0 game would have looked good for the pollsters ... and I hope that the score doesn't discount the way we really played."

The victory, following a twoyear NCAA probation which kept Oklahoma out of the bowls and off national television, was fashioned on a 39-yard end-around scamper by reserve Billy Brooks in the second period and a 10-yard scoring run by quarterback Steve Davis on the first play of the fourth quarter.

And the loss by Ohio State earlier in the day didn't hurt any. "We were aware of the Rose Bowl score," said Switzer, "and it inspired us."

UCLA, trailing 3-0 at halftime, erupted for three touchdowns in the second half and made the oddsmakers, who had tabbed Ohio State as 15-point favorites, eat their words.

"We knew we could beat them all the time," said John Sciarra, the Bruins' All-American quarterback. "We were not discouraged at halftime. It was just a matter of getting our offense opened up."

Open it up they did in the second half, Sciarra hooking up with speedy Wally Henry on scoring passes of 16 and 67 yards and Wendell Tyler breaking a 54-yard scoring scamper. Meanwhile, the Bruins defense checked Ohio State's rugged ground game, then picked off three passes when the Buckeyes were forced to go to the air.

The victory was particularly sweet for UCLA, which had lost to Ohio State 41-20 during the regular season.

"We showed them UCLA is not just a basketball team but a football team, too," said Tyler.

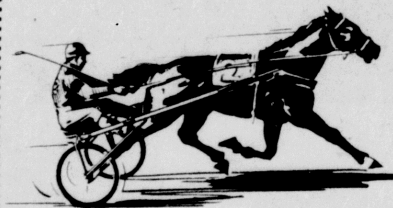

In the Cotton Bowl earlier Thursday, 18th-ranked Arkansas came up with three touchdowns in the fourth quarter and beat 12th-ranked Georgia 31-10. Arkansas took advantage of two fumbles to score 10 points in the final minute of the half, and Georgia never recovered, managing just one first down in the entire second half.

Ike Forte, the game's leading rusher with 119 yards, scored two touchdowns for Arkansas.

Alabama's Sugar Bowl victory on New Year's Eve was built on the passing of Richard Todd, who completed 10 of 12 for 210 yards, and a staunch defense which limited Penn State to a pair of field goals. It ended eight years of post-season losses for Bryant.

"This victory has been a long time coming and it's a real sweet one," said Bryant. "We beat a great football team."

Earlier Wednesday, quarterback Dan Kendra threw two touchdown passes to carry West Virginia to a 13-10 victory over North Carolina State in the Peach Bowl at Atlanta.

Lebanon opens 138-night slate

LEBANON — The earliest and longest race meeting in the track's history gets under way tonight at the Lebanon Raceway.

A total of 138 nights of harness racing are scheduled during 1976 for the Warren County track which has been in operation for more than a quarter of a century.

The winter-spring meeting extends through May 22. That will be followed by 10 nights of racing from Sept. 17 through Oct. 9. Another 20 nights of racing are scheduled from Nov. 26 through Dec. 18.

The early dates were made possible by the complete winterizing of the Lebanon facilities, including a completely enclosed paddock building extending 140 feet.

The winterizing project was completed in time for the recent December meeting awarded Lebanon under the Ohio Racing Commission's extended racing program.

Corwin Nixon, the track's general manager, said that only five nights of racing will be held each week through the first three months with no racing Sundays and Mondays.

The track will return to its usual six-nights-per week routine in the spring.

Nixon also announced that there will be free grandstand seating from Tuesday through Thursday each week.

Improved program of racing is also being planned with Mahlon Nixon having been named director of racing. He replaces Herb Davis, who retired in December following 12 years as racing secretary at Lebanon and the Latonia Race Course in Florence, Ky.

Among the planned changes will be racing at longer distances than the customary one mile.

Dallas, Los Angeles duel for berth

Oakland bewails title game troubles

PITTSBURGH (AP) — To hear Oakland owner Al Davis tell it, the Pittsburgh Steelers should sit on the bench for the first half of the American Football Conference title game Sunday — just to make it an fair match.

"We've had one injury after another this year. And we're still banged up," said Davis. "We're in trouble."

This approach is a contrast to the pregame banter before last year's playoff meeting between Oakland and Pittsburgh.

Raider Coach John Madden said then that the Oakland-Miami playoff game was the real bowl for superstars and the remark not only fired the Steelers but irritate unflappable Coach Chuck Noll.

"I think we'll have something to say about that," Noll responded. His Steelers went on to beat Oakland 24-13.

The kind of sports page bravado that inspires the opposition is not part of the Noll game plan.

"I know a lot of people who win the Super Bowl before the season starts. I always thought that's why we play the games. When people stand up and say they're the best, that adds fuel to the fire," Noll says.

And Davis has apparently learned the Noll lesson of the tight lip. Not willing to trigger any short fuse in the Steelers, is much more conciliatory this year.

"We always thought Miami was the best team in the last 20 years, but now I'm not sure if the Steelers aren't better than Miami was," offered the flamboyant Raider managing general partner in an interview with a Post-Gazette reporter.

"They've got a tremendous advantage at home and they know it," he added, also failing to mention that the Raiders beat the Steelers 17-0 the last time they visited Three Rivers Stadium.

Noll remains unnervingly cool about Sunday's match.

"It's a fun game. Our guys like to play fun games," he says, even as his rival promotes him for a Pro Bowl coaching spot.

"Chuck's got more guys there than anybody else (10) so it just seems right for him to coach the team," says Davis, failing to mention that the coaching job goes to the loser of the AFC title game.

But Davis' "Alas, poor me" approach to Sunday's installment in one of the most intense league rivalries does not jibe with the facts, however.

Davis has built an organization that has the best record in pro football over the last 12 years. The Raiders used on season to rebuild and have since won their division.

The Rams should remember Staubach-to-Pearson. That combination clicked on a dramatic last minute touchdown pass to topple Minnesota 17-14 last Sunday, but it wasn't the first time the duo had ended an opponent's hopes for a Super Bowl trip.

"Dallas has many offensive sets," Knox said this week as his NFC Western Division champions prepared to meet the conference wild-card representative Cowboys. "And it has the players who can give you the big plays. Drew Pearson does it consistently, and Staubach is the kind of quarterback who adds an extra dimension to your offense."

Two years ago, Staubach hit Pearson with a fourth-quarter bomb to help Dallas score a 27-16 decision over Los Angeles in the first round of the playoffs.

And in the opening game of the 1975 season, the Staubach-led Cowboys handed the Rams an 18-7 setback.

If the play of the Rams' defense in the team's 12-2 season is any indication, however, the Cowboys won't find points easy to come by this time around.

The Ram defense gave up just 135 points in regular season play, and only one team — the 1969 Vikings with 133 — had given up less.

And in the Rams' latest outing, the playoff opener with St. Louis last Saturday, the Los Angeles defense picked off three Jim Hart passes, returning two for touchdowns in the 35-23 triumph over the Cardinals.

Rams defensive coordinator Ray Malavasi explains the team's opportunistic defensive play as "anticipation."

"We don't know what's coming all the time with a team like Dallas," Malavasi said. "We can guess, through scouting reports and statistics, that on a certain down they'll be in this formation and might run this play but we're not positive. We're anticipating."

Knox said the Cowboys are a veteran team. "Of their 22 starters, 21 are veterans, 14 of them guys who played in the Super Bowl," Knox said.

The Cowboys bring a 10-4 record into the game, a sellout that will be nationally televised.

Bucks face Hoosiers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State opens its Big Ten basketball season Saturday against national powerhouse Indiana, and the best most observers can say for the Buckeyes is that they're playing at home.

But even if playing in St. John Arena is a disadvantage for the visitors, the statistics overwhelmingly favor the Hoosiers, top rated in everyone's national college basketball polls.

Indiana will be trying to duplicate last year's 18-0 conference mark and boasts an unblemished record after eight games this season.

The Hoosiers go into Saturday night's fray off three victories in New York City which gave them the Holiday Festival title. After two easy triumphs over Columbia and Manhattan in the preliminaries, Indiana showed it could be tough, squeezing out a 76-69 victory over determined St. John's in the closing minutes of the finale.

At the same time, the Buckeyes slipped to a .500 average after losses to Tulane and Penn in the Sugar Bowl Classic. Coach Fred Taylor's charges lost their first two games, which were on the road, then roared-back for four straight victories before entering the New Orleans competition Sunday.

A FAST TRACK

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Racing Assn. reports that 22 time records were set by horses running over Aqueduct, Belmont Park and Saratoga racing strips in 1973. Three other records were tied.

Belmont led the way with 13 records. Six were broken at Aqueduct and three during the four-week meeting at Saratoga.

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Louisiana State's Charlie McClendon, who will be coaching the East team in Saturday's 51st Shrine East-West football game, has three talented running backs who need some help.

"We brought runners, not the blockers," the LSU coach admitted when analyzing the abilities of running backs Sonny Collins of Kentucky, Lonnie Perrin of Illinois and Mike Pruitt of Purdue.

The East will be counting on a group of big linemen, including 257-pound Dennis Lick of Wisconsin and 260-pound Jim Eidson of Mississippi State, to make some running room for the back-field trio.

Quarterback Jeff Grantz of South Carolina also is an excellent runner, and Toledo's Gene Swick figures to be in the game when the East stresses passing. Swick's 8,074 yards total offense broke the NCAA career record held by Jim Plunkett of Stanford.

California Coach Mike White has Cal's All-American back, Chuck Muncie, on the West squad, and if the 228-pound Muncie heads through the line behind Wyoming fullback Lawrence Gaines, 231, it will take sturdy defenders to stop them.

"My approach to this game is to give the public the opportunity to see some great players perform what they do best," says White. That means Muncie will be running a lot and West quarterbacks Craig Penrose and Steve Myer will be doing their share of passing.

"I know I've been called one of the best pro quarterback prospects in college football. Now I want to prove it, and this game gives me a chance," said Penrose, the San Diego State star who led the nation in passing this season.

Myer, from New Mexico, ranked third nationally in passing, behind Penrose and Swick. West receivers include Cal's Steve Rivera and Grambling's Sammie White.

The Shriners, who run the East-West game and have raised more than $4 million for their hospitals for crippled children in the first 50 years of their existence, are hoping for a crowd of about 70,000 in Stanford Stadium Saturday. There will be no television coverage this year.

The East has won the last three games but trails in the series 24-21-5.

Flyers rip Scouts; coach complains

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

It wasn't the loss that mattered to Bep Guidolin. As coach of the second-year Kansas City Scouts, he had seen more than his share of those.

It was something more than that. He was insulted — enraged — by the Philadelphia Flyers. One of his few solid players, left wing Guy Charron, suffered a stick cut over his right eye in the last minute of play and required stitches. Seconds later Craig Patrick was high-sticked by Ed Van Impe, needed stitches and may have suffered a broken nose.

"They are just a bunch of hatchets," the fuming Guidolin said after the 4-2 defeat. "They're just out there trying to kill somebody with their sticks. Then they complain about getting penalties."

What we need is a couple of guys in here to do the same thing, just like they did. We ought to bring in a couple of butchers who can't even skate but just swing their sticks at everybody in the league and try to chop their heads off."

Bep Guidolin had finished. His team had played to the best of its ability, outshot the Flyers 39-34, and even had a three-man advantage in the last minute when two Philadelphia skaters were penalized and goalie Denis Herron had been pulled from his net.

But the Flyers' Bill Barber skimmed a shot into Kansas City's empty net, negating any chance of a tie and sealing the triumph.

Elsewhere in the National Hockey League, the Los Angeles Kings outscored the Buffalo Sabres 9-6 and the Toronto Maple Leafs downed the California Seals 5-1. In the World Hockey Association, the Calgary Cowboys topped the Edmonton Oilers 5-1.

Illinois coach resigns

Paul Brown quits as coach

CINCINNATI (AP) — Paul Brown, the dean of National Football League coaches whose success during a 41-year career served as a hallmark of excellence, resigned Thursday as the head coach of the Cincinnati Bengals.

"It's unfortunate," said Bengals tight end Bob Trumpy. "He's the last of the old line coaches. George Halas is gone. Vince Lombardi is gone and now Paul Brown."

Brown, in a move whose suddenness shocked both his players and assistant coaches, said that he was retaining his position as the team's general manager and named assistant Bill Johnson as his successor.

"We had no inkling of his decision," said center Bob Johnson, who was the first player drafted by Brown when he took over the newly-organized Bengals in 1967. "He was one of the founding fathers of football. He was one of the shaping forces in the National Football League and will probably continue it. He won't stop."

A Bengal spokesman said Brown, who was named to the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1967, was at his winter home on the West Coast and did not elaborate on his reasons for stepping down after guiding the Bengals to an 11-

PAUL BROWN

3 season, their most successful season since their inception eight years ago. However, the 67-year-old Brown had always previously brushed aside questions of retirement.

"I can only say what I have said many times," he said last winter. "I'll continue coaching as long as it doesn't weigh too heavily."

The soft-spoken Brown concluded his 41st year of coaching with a total record of 351 wins, 133 losses and 16 ties, including a professional mark of 213-114-10 and NFL titles in 1950, 1954, and 1955.

That figured out to about a .725 winning percentage in his four decades of coaching.

In his first 10 seasons as a pro coach, he won a league or division title every year.

He carved his nitch in professional football by fashioning the Cleveland Browns into a powerhouse in the old All-America Football conference. The Browns won 52, lost only four and tied three in four championship seasons before moving into the National Football League.

He continued his success when the Browns moved into the NFL and only once in 13 years did he have a losing season while coaching the likes of quarterback Otto Graham, fullback Marion Motley, and later NFL all time rushing leader Jim Brown.

His most bitter moment came in 1962 when the Browns fired him, claiming the game had passed him by and Brown stayed away from the pro game for five years before he seized a chance to return and fashion a new team, the emerging Bengals.

His retirement comes at a time when the Bengals appear to be blossoming into a Super Bowl contender behind passing sensation Ken Anderson.

Brown graduated from Miami of Ohio University and after deciding against a career as a lawyer, he established himself as a successful high school coach at Massillon High School in Ohio where he had an 80-8 record.

He won a national title while coaching at Ohio State from 1941-43 and had a 18-8 record, then had success with the Great Lakes Naval Training Center team before forming the Browns in 1946.

He was known for his innovative coaching techniques which included being first to employ a year-round

Rockets top Trail Blazers; win 110-107

By The Associated Press
John Johnson has something to be happy about, having gotten the new year off to a good start in leading the Houston Rockets to victory against his former teammates, the Portland Trail Blazers.

When the Rockets have needed "JJ," which hasn't been often this National Basketball Association season, the 6-foot-7 forward has been there for Coach John Egan. Thursday night he scored 22 points, 14 of them in the final period, to give Houston a 110-107 triumph.

"Johnson has had three good games in a row for us," said Coach Egan after the victory. "There have been periods where he hasn't played much and I've asked him to work extra hard on his own to keep in top shape. He is a pro and he has done it."

Lack of playing time is what led to Johnson's mid-November trade from Portland for forward-center Steve Hawes. But Coach Len Wilkens of the Trail Blazers, who blew a five-point lead in the closing three minutes, found kind words for his former co-worker.

"JJ hit some fine clutch shots on us there at the end," Wilkens said.

"You've seen me shoot that way before," a modest Johnson said after the victory. "It feels good, real good. This was a big win for us. I just kind of got lucky."

In the only other NBA game Thursday night, the Washington Bullets recorded a 114-103 victory over the Phoenix Suns. The American Basketball Association took the night off.

Sports briefs

Archie Griffin hurt early in game

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin of Ohio State suffered a fractured bone in his left hand during the Buckeyes 23-10 Rose Bowl loss Thursday to UCLA.

A team physician said Griffin would be sidelined for four to five weeks, which will cost him an appearance in the Hula Bowl in Honolulu Jan. 10.

"It happened on the third play of the game," said Griffin, who gained 93 yards in the loss. "I was going for the ball and somebody hit my hand."

Western Michigan has perfect record

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Proving the prophets right, Western Michigan has stormed through its preconference basketball season to a 7-0 record as the Mid-American Conference season opens Saturday.

It is the Bronco's best effort since 1946-47, when they won eight in a row going into MAC competition.

Western Michigan was the preseason choice of coaches and writers to take the top spot in the conference this year.

Honors scheduled for Rose

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — All-American Archie Griffin, top college football player of 1975, and the Cincinnati Reds' Pete Rose will be honored here Jan. 12 by the Philadelphia Sports Writers Association.

Griffin, the Ohio State running back, set three national collegiate records while helping the Buckeyes to an 11-0 season and Thursday's date in the Rose Bowl against UCLA.

Saginaw, Muskegon tie 3-3

Six players got into the scoring action as the Saginaw Gears and Muskegon Mohawks fought to a 3-3 tie in an International Hockey League game before a sellout crowd of 5,465 fans in Saginaw on New Year's night.

Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures
By SYD KRONISH

BERMUDA

The Bicentennial of the American Revolution is also uncovering many other milestones connected with the anniversary resulting in the issuance of special stamps by foreign lands. Bermuda, for example, has issued a new set of four stamps commemorating the 200th anniversary of its "gunpowder plot" which helped the colonial cause.

The new stamps mark the theft, during the American Revolution, of 100 barrels of English gunpowder from the Royal Magazine in Bermuda by those sympathetic to the American cause. In 1775 the gunpowder was taken from the magazine, rolled to waiting whaleboats in Tobacco Bay and rowed to American ships waiting offshore.

It is interesting to note that when the colonial governor sought Bermudian ships and sailors to pursue the American vessels, he found no volunteers and thus the American ships sailed away without interference.

The stamps depict various scenes of this hazardous episode. Each stamp bears the inscription "200th anniversary of Gunpowder Plot at St. Georges 1775 — American War of Independence." The values are 5 cents, 17 c, 20 c and 25 c.

The 1976 edition of the Minkus New American Stamp Catalog is being termed "The American Bicentennial Edition." The 345-page catalog includes a six-page introduction which tells the story of how the postal system started in America.

BENNY GOODMAN GIVEN PROCLAMATION NEW YORK (AP) — At a concert by Benny Goodman and a combo at the Schaefer Music Festival in Central Park, a proclamation from the office of Percy Sutton, borough president of Manhattan, was read.

In part, it said, "In 1935 the era that was to become known as the Swing Era was born. Benny Goodman was designated as its king. We salute the 40th anniversary of Benny Goodman as King of Swing."

The group gave a long concert, with Goodman in top form. The music got as hot as the weather during "Back Home Again in Indiana."

In 1836, Texans wanted more than tacos from Mexico. They wanted their independence.

And they got it.
But once a republic, the next step was statehood. So the American government issued a five-percent stock to help pay for the annexation. And the citizens welcomed their new neighbors by quickly buying up the stock.

Today, Americans still help their country grow by buying United States Savings Bonds—at banks and through the Payroll Savings Plan at work.

And while they help their country, they help themselves to safe, dependable savings.

Take stock in America with United States Savings Bonds.

You just can't buy a better country.

Now E Bonds pay 6 1/2% interest when held to maturity (5 years 4 1/2% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. Withdrawal of Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Meaning of 'Walking' Pneumonia

My mother was told that she had "walking pneumonia." I've heard this term before and don't understand it. Can you explain?

Miss E.B., Ore.

Dear Miss B.:

There are two commonly used terms about pneumonia that seem to confuse the layman. These terms are "walking pneumonia" and "double pneumonia."

Walking pneumonia refers to a person who has been "walking around" without any symptoms of an existing mild infection. However, it is rare for a true pneumonia to be present without any evidence of it.

The term "double pneumonia" means that both lungs are involved in the infection. The condition, therefore, may be more serious because of the wider distribution of the infection.

Another confusing term is "I almost had a touch of pneumonia" or "I was on the verge of pneumonia." There is no "almost pneumonia." Either it is present or it is not.

The clinical diagnosis of pneumonia can be substantiated by X-rays of the chest. Since the advent of the antibiotics, pneumonia and its complications have been sharply reduced.

My 80-year-old father has a severe case of shingles. He is despondent over the length of time the doctor says a cure will take. Are there any new forms of treatment that can speed his recovery?

Police, deputies check 10 holiday traffic mishaps

Both the Fayette County Sheriff's Department and the Washington C.H. Police Department reported numerous traffic accidents as 1975 drew to a close, including one involving a city police cruiser. The few injuries which resulted from those accidents were not serious. City police report no traffic mishaps thus far in 1976; however, sheriff's deputies have already investigated their first traffic mishap in the new year.

POLICE

WEDNESDAY, 1:13 p.m. — A car driven by Ronald D. Funk, 19, of 410 Blackstone Ave., ran a stop sign at the corner of North Street and Oakland Avenue and wound up in Fred R. Jones' front yard at 632 N. North St. Funk was charged with driving while intoxicated and failing to obey a traffic sign.

2:55 p.m. — Cars driven by David D. Ellis, 49, of 305 Clearview Road, and Rosie L. Kingery, 28, Milledgeville, collided while backing from parking spaces in the municipal parking lot on S. Fayette Street.

2:40 p.m. — Cars driven by Steven O. Lunsford, 22, Dayton, and Chester T. Steed, 41, of 738 Eastern Ave., collided at the intersection of Delaware Street and Eastern Avenue when Steed pulled from a stop sign into Lunsford's path. The initial collision caused Lunsford to strike a fire hydrant and a street sign. His passenger, Linda K. Lunsford, 21, Dayton, showed visible signs of injury at the accident scene, but was not treated according to hospital staff. Steed was cited for failing to yield right of way. Police noted this accident report was made by Fayette County Sheriff's Deputy Robert L. Russell since all available police were investigating other traffic mishaps at the time.

1:53 p.m. — Cars driven by Larry M. Hott, 29, New Holland, and John D. Hunt Sr., 30, of 1003 Lakeview Ave., collided on Clinton Avenue near the Draper Street intersection while Hott, who is a Washington C.H. police specialist, was en route to an accident at the intersection of W. Court Street and Circle Avenue (see below). Investigating officer at the scene, Police Specialist William Robinson, explained Specialist Hunt was driving in the oncoming traffic lane, passing vehicles with the flashing lights on the cruiser in operation when Hunt made a left turn into Kroger's in front of Hott, who applied his brakes but slid on wet pavement. Hott claimed injury from the mishap and Hunt's passenger, Mary K. Hunt, 27, of 1003 Lakeview

Ave., sustained a nose contusion, but did not require treatment. Spec. Robinson charged Spec. Hott with improper passing. The cruiser siren had not been on.

1:48 p.m. — A car driven by Wendell P. Logan, 17, Jeffersonville, struck a van driven by Richard L. Adermatt, 27, Chillicothe, in the rear at the intersection of W. Court and Circle avenues. Logan was charged with failure to maintain an assured clear distance ahead.

11:55 a.m. — Cars driven by Patty F. Evans, 23, of 819 Temple St., and Steven K. Walters 22, of 915 Millwood Ave., collided in the 200 block of N. Main Street. Police stated a legally parked pickup truck had obscured Ms. Evans' view of the oncoming Walters vehicle.

Hutton, 53, of 608 E. Market St. Police reported minor damage.

10:55 a.m. — An accident on Clinton Avenue occurred when a car driven by Thomas W. Smith, 54, of 310 N. Hinde St., attempted to exit the Pennington Bakery lot while a car driven by Willis J. VanDyke, 27, Bloomingburg, was entering the lot. Police stated Smith's auto rolled into VanDyke's path. No citations were issued and damage was estimated as slight.

SHERIFF

Florida trooper slain by gunman

APOLLO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A mounted posse and dozens of policemen are searching for a man who fatally wounded an off-duty state trooper after terrorizing the trooper's neighbors.

"We're sure he's still hiding somewhere in the swamps or woods," a spokeswoman for the Hillsborough County Sheriff's office said early today. "It's a shocking case. There was just no provocation. No reason for the shooting."

Trooper Kenneth Flynt, 52, died at Tampa General Hospital late Thursday. He had been shot once in the head early Thursday morning after a gunman hammered on the door of his home here. Flynt, a 19-year veteran of the force, was due to retire in six months.

Sheriff's Major Walter Heinrich gave this account of the shooting:

A man, said by witnesses to be in his 20s with long blond hair, banged on the front door at the home of Flynt's neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wasylyk, shortly before 4 a.m.

Wasylyk and his brother, Dick, visiting from Winnipeg, Canada, answered the door and were confronted by a man holding a gun and a tire iron. The gunman forced the brothers to lie down on the living room floor, demanded the keys to the car and threatened to take one of the men with him.

Mrs. Wasylyk tried to go to the kitchen door. The gunman raised the pistol, but said, "I'm not going to shoot a woman." He turned the gun toward one brother, taunted, "Do you think you're brave?" and fired a shot near his head.

The gunman repeated the question and fired close to the second brother's head, then backed through the front door and fired twice more in the air. In the confusion, Mrs. Wasylyk slipped out and ran next door to wake up the Flynts.

As Flynt answered the door, he was met by the gunman, who shot twice. One bullet hit Flynt in the head.

Police spent the day searching for the suspect with little success. Officers even went from house to house to make certain that no other family in the small town, south of Tampa, was being held hostage.

"Our House" at Gallipolis, now an Ohio museum, once sheltered many famous guests. It was built as an inn in 1819 from bricks brought from England as ballast for a sailing vessel.
